CHRISTMASTIDE'S LONG RECORD OF TRAGEDY

Thirty Killed in Philippines Church Stampede

M. Trojanovsky, the new Soviet Ambassador to Russia, who served as Russian envoy in Tokyo for five years, left Moscow for the United States yesterday, according to Reuters.

SOVIET DIPLOMACY

"CHANGCHUN'S" FEARS

MOSCOW REPLY

Moscow, Dec. 26. Commenting on reports from Changchun indicating that the opinion held by the Manchurian administration that Russia is likely to strengthen her anti-Japanese policy, Pravda says that this may be ascribed to those who are trying by all means to violate the peace of the Far East. The Changchun suggestion is that the Soviet, by strengthening an anti-Japanese attitude would thereby achieve more friendly relations with the United States and with China.

Pravda observes that only the most reactionary Japanese military circles may fear a possible rapprochement between the Soviet, the United States and China on questions of Far East policy. Inveitla commenting on a Changchun report published in the Asahi, alleging that the Soviet has agreed to rent Sakhalin to the United States for a period of thirty years, ridicules the credence alleged to have been given to the story in Japan.—Reuters.

SOVIET COTTON CROP

INCREASE REPORTED THIS YEAR

Moscow, Dec. 26. The Soviet cotton stock on December 20 amounted to 1,250,000 tons, exceeding the 1932 tonnage by a hundred thousand tons. In order to increase the 1934 crop, the cotton districts in middle Asia and Trans-Caucasus have been supplied with a greatly increased amount of chemical fertilizers.—Reuters.

STOP PRESS

Nanking, Dec. 27. Chinese newspapers give prominence to a report that Government forces are advancing on Yanping from Kienow, and optimistically forecast the capture of Foochow within a week.—Reuters.

HEAVY SENTENCE ON N.C.O.

IMPRISONMENT AND DISCHARGE

WITH IGNOMINY

Found guilty by District Court Martial of the misappropriation of mess funds, Sergeant William John Thomas, 2nd. Battery R.H.K.S.R.A., has been sentenced to be reduced to the ranks, to imprisonment with hard labour for one year, and to be discharged with ignominy from His Majesty's service.

The sentence has been confirmed by the General Officer Commanding, who, however, has remitted six months of the imprisonment sentence.

Accused was charged with misappropriation of monies handed to him by his Battery Commander, Captain E. J. C. Barry, for the purpose of paying bills for articles for messing. In all, there were five charges, the sums involved being $69.10, $47.30, $52.11, $55.50, and $60.82, all payable to Messrs. Abbas Khan, contractors. He was found guilty on all counts.

At the trial, Thomas made a complete denial of all the charges, alleging that the accusations were a "conspiracy."

U.S. NAVY PLANS CHANGED

RETURNING TO PACIFIC

A change in the plans for the return of the American fleet to the Atlantic from the Pacific on a visit next year has been announced by Admiral David F. Sellers, the commander, upon his return from Washington.

He said the fleet would sail to the North Atlantic by way of the Panama Canal on April 9. While the itinerary has not been approved it was unofficially reported in naval circles that the squadrons will return to the Pacific about Nov. 15. Admiral Sellers has also recommended that six seaplanes of a patrol squadron leave San Francisco in the middle of January on a non-stop flight to Honolulu, a distance of about 2,000 miles. The flight will be similar to two long-distance flights made this year by naval squadrons between the United States and the Panama canal.

The combined Atlantic and Pacific fleets have been in the Pacific for the last two years. President Roosevelt's recent announcement of the return of the main body to the Atlantic was hailed with satisfaction in Japan.

TAMAR TRAGEDY

IMPRESSIVE SCENE AT FUNERAL

Full naval honours were accorded the late Signalman J.A. Sullivan, of H.M.S. Tamar, who met his death under tragic circumstances on Christmas Day, when his remains were interred at Happy Valley this morning.

The coffin draped with the Union Jack, was conveyed from the Royal Naval Hospital on a gun carriage drawn by a gun's crew from H.M.S. Berwick, the cortege including Commodore Frank Elliott, Cdr. C.H. Heath, Caldwell, D.S.O., H.M.S. Tamar, Lieut. Cdr. R.G. Chichester, H.M.S. Tamar, Surg. Lieut. J. Corbett, H.M.S. Tamar, and Lieut. W.E.C. Lowndes, H.M.S. Cornflower, messmates from H.M.S. Tamar, a firing party from H.M.S. Berwick, Royal Marines, a band from H.M.S. Berwick, and a large number of Petty Officers and ratings. (Continued on Page 7.)

MANY LIVES LOST IN ERUPTIONS

SCORES DEAD IN MOTOR SMASHES IN AMERICA

LONDON, DEC. 26.

CHRISTMASTIDE THROUGHOUT THE WORLD WAS MARKED BY AN INORDINATE NUMBER OF DISASTERS AND TRAGEDIES. OUTSTANDING, OF COURSE, WAS THE LAGNY EXPRESS SMASH, BUT THERE WERE HOSTS OF TRAGEDIES OF LESSER MAGNITUDE BRINGING GRIEF TO HUNDREDS OF HOME.

Thirty people were trampled to death during a panic in a little church at the village of Tanauan in the Philippines.

A Christmas Eve ceremony was proceeding and a fireworks sparkler was used to illuminate the altar. Members of the congregation thought that the church was on fire and raised an alarm which spread panic through the congregation. A general stampede for the doors was made, scores being knocked down and trampled upon. Thirty died of their injuries.

The Philippines was also the scene of a volcano tragedy. Seventeen were killed and many rendered homeless when the Bulusan volcano erupted a flood of sulphurous water, which rushed down the hillside and swept away scores of houses, killing and injuring many of the occupants who were without warning.

FIRE TRAGEDY AT BATTLE CREEK

Another eruption occurred on the island of Kuchinoeraba, Japan, as the result of which four were killed, thirty injured. Many houses were buried in ashes.

The death toll in the United States was very heavy. Those reported already exceed one hundred and eighty, most of them as the result of motor accidents.

A blind woman and her infant daughter were both burned to death at Battle Creek, Michigan, when straws spread on the floor of her house caught on fire.

HUSBAND'S SACRIFICE.

The woman's husband, who was attending another party in the neighbourhood rushed to the scene and was also burned to death in a vain effort to rescue his family.

Five persons at least died of cold in the Middle West which is snowbound, the roads being practically impassable. There are great drifts, while the ordinary snow blanket is feet deep.

GIRL'S SUICIDE.

Another tragedy, the facts of which have not yet been elucidated occurred at a party at Kenosha in Wisconsin, where a nineteen-year-old girl shot herself dead in the midst of the Christmas jollifications.

The wildest weather for years was experienced in the Aleutian Islands, which suffered very heavy damage in severe gales which swept through the island all through the Christmas.

Dwellings were swept away by the storms, the violence of which may be gauged from the fact that telegraph poles were found to have been blown uprooted.

GRAN CHACO WAR.

A Christmas armistice was arranged in the Gran Chaco where Paraguay and Bolivia are at war. The armistice plans have only made feelings more bitter on the Bolivian side which vehemently protested at the Pan-American Congress against the occupation of four Bolivian forts by the Paraguayans immediately prior to the hour fixed for the cessation of fighting.

A memorial service is being held at the Gare de l'Est in connexion with the Lagny railway disaster. President Lebrun will personally attend the service, and will be accompanied by members of the Chautemps Cabinet and railway and other officials. Otherwise, the attendance will be restricted to relatives of the victims.—Reuters.

LAGNY DEATH-ROLL.

Later. The Lagny disaster death-roll estimates fluctuate hourly, owing to deaths of the injured.

The revised total is now 201, ten of those injured having died at Lagny, while the bodies of 191 victims are already resting in the Gare de l'Est.—Reuters.

PARIS ESPIONAGE ARRESTS

AMERICAN DENIES ACCUSATIONS

Robert Switz, the American arrested in Paris on charges of espionage, has denied all accusations.

French police declare, in connexion with the case that they, however, smashed a world-wide spying organization, which included the United States and Japan, and covered industrial and economic espionage as well as military matters.

The silk industry was among those on which the organization was gathering information, police asserted. Switz, 29, of East Orange, N.J., and Marjorie Tilley, 22, of New York, were among the persons arrested.

A taste of the Christmas pudding mixture for the troops at Aldershot, where hundreds were made by the N.A.A.F.I.

MALAYA RACIAL PROBLEMS

CLEMENTI REPLIES TO CRITICS

KUALA LUMPUR SPEECH

The use of Malay as the lingua franca of the country, the place of this language in educational policy, and the "Malayanisation" process in the population of the Peninsula were discussed by Sir Cecil Clementi in a remarkable speech at a Rotary Convention in Kuala Lumpur last week.

His Excellency laid great stress on the need for racial harmony and good fellowship and asked Rotarians to set their faces like flint "against any effort to stir up animosity between race and race and creed and creed."

In the course of his speech, Sir Cecil said: "Few things have gripped me more than the suggestions recently made in certain local newspapers—without any truth and sometimes, I fear, in malice—that my own direction of Malayan policy has caused racial discord in this peninsula."

GIVEN THE LIE.

"Such insinuations deliberately misrepresent the course of events during the past three years; and the possibility of my permitting such a policy is given the lie by my whole life."

"I was born and lived as a child in India, where my father and one of my brothers spent their whole official careers. In my school days I began the study of Sanskrit, which I continued at Oxford, at a time when I had thoughts of entering the Indian Civil Service, and ever since I have been keenly and sympathetically interested in India and its peoples. For three years I served as Colonial Secretary of Ceylon and became well acquainted with the Jaffna Tamils and the Ceylonese many of whom are personal friends of mine. I retain from those years an abiding affection for Ceylon and its inhabitants."

LOVES THE CHINESE.

"China I have known since 1899. The best years of my life were spent in Hongkong, and it is not too much to say that I love China and the Chinese."

"In Malaya I have lived only since 1930, but from my early boyhood, in the days when my uncle, Sir Cecil Clementi Smith was at first Colonial Secretary and afterwards Governor of the Straits Settlements, I grew familiar with the story of this peninsula and learned to admire the Malays."

LAYING THE FOUNDATIONS.

"Such having been my life, I find myself in full sympathy with the chief racial elements in the population of this country, and my whole heart and mind are set upon the endeavour to maintain

FOOCHOW AIR RAID CASUALTIES

Eight Killed and Eleven Wounded

Foochow, Dec. 26. Seven Nanking planes took part in the air raid on Foochow yesterday and fifteen bombs were dropped. Eight, including seven civilians, were killed, and eleven wounded. The Confucian Temple was partially destroyed. All the damage occurred near military headquarters. Twenty were killed and wounded at Kutien by air bombardment.

TWO HOUSES GUTTED

BIG BLAZE THIS MORNING

SCENE OF PREVIOUS OUTBREAK

For 30 minutes, a fire raged in Chung Sau Lane West early this morning, destroying two houses and severely damaging several others, and bringing out no fewer than eight Fire Brigade appliances to the spot.

Chung Sau Lane is a narrow alley connecting with Queen's Road West, and spanning the 10 ft. gap intervening, the fire which originally broke out in No. 24, spread across to the other side of the lane. No. 23, directly opposite, was also soon involved, and the situation assumed a dire aspect in this extremely congested area.

The Brigade acted with great dispatch. Earlier this month, the same lane had been the scene of a disastrous outbreak, and with a full knowledge of the danger, all fire appliances were rushed to the scene immediately on an alarm being sent through from Hollywood Road.

The lane was inaccessible to the larger appliances, but lines were laid from Queen's Road West and Koshing Street, and these got to work early on. Despite this, heavy damage was exacted by the flames, which they had secured a firm hold being in the end, destroyed, the roofs collapsing.

No casualties are reported. The fire originated in a shop occupied by a purveyor of seafood. A medicine shop was also involved.

harmony and good fellowship between them and to fashion them into true and trusty citizens of Malaya. (Applause). "Generations may perhaps be needed for this task; but my aim is to see that the foundations are well and truly laid."

CHELSEA FIND NET AT LAST

HOME TEAMS HAVE GOOD DAY

NEWCASTLE TURNS TABLES

London, Dec. 26.

The topsy-turvy form usually associated with league football at Christmastide has been almost completely absent, the surprise being provided by the scarcity of surprises.

The Arsenal carried off six points from three games, Huddersfield captured five and Middlebrough a like number. Wednesday took four points from two games.

To-day, the First Division matches proved a gift for the home teams. The only upset occurred where it seemed least likely. Everton, having won at Newcastle on Christmas, found three goals insufficient to defeat Newcastle at Everton. The visitors netted seven times!

WOLVES ON TARGET.

The Wolves defeated the Villa, by four goals to three. Their forwards netted fourteen goals in three games, the highest aggregate of any team.

In the Second Division, no side obtained maximum points. Millwall obtained five points, four from Notts County (who went entirely pointless through Christmas) and are still only second from the bottom. All the lowly-placed clubs did fairly well.

Grimsby stretched out their lead to six points by a 7-3 win against Manchester United, while Blackpool and Brentford were losing in away matches.

CHARLTON ACHIEVEMENT.

Charlton Athletic alone obtained maximum points in Third Division (South) though Watford gave them a close call to-day. Charlton needed every one of their four goals to take both points.

Norwich repeated against Crystal Palace, but Queen's Park Rangers and Coventry both dropped points and shared with Reading the credit of earning five of six possible points during the holiday season. Not one of the six clubs at the foot of the table lost to-day.

CHESTERFIELD LAPSE.

Chesterfield conceded another point to Darlington in the Northern Section, where Barnsley defeated Hartlepool by 6-4 to give them six points for the Christmas festival, and raise them to fourth place. Walsall, with five Xmas points, now lie third.

Tottenham and Derby went crashing in the First Division, to offset which Chelsea discovered where the net was, netting four times against Sunderland without reply.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Moulded, Slender Cut Gives Suavity to Winter Furs

By Joan Savoy

Fur coats that bespeak "Winter, 1934" use high quality pelts as if they were fine fabrics, draping them softly, fitting them sleekly into flattering lines for the modern's slender hips.

Moreover, they incorporate into the make-up many of the suave new decorative features of cloth coats. Collars, sleeves and the body-cut show decidedly that they are the latest creations. The day when a fur coat was as good one year as another is definitely past. The best furs are high-styled now. If trim, as well as around the flaring a second fur is used for trim, usually it is only for the collar.

The type of coat to pick depends both on your type and the uses to which you intend putting the coat. There's a 'vogue' right this minute for seal, the kind that looks brown when you blow into it. But caracul, of the flat type of fur with its a deep nap fur. Sleeker a handsome sheen to it. This coat caracul, or broadtail, take to the new fitted lines better. Sportive leopard or kidskin flare more readily for the swagger fur coats. Persian lamb, with its wearability, always is a popular choice. Mink or sable still is a woman's dream.

For the smart young business woman, the society woman or young girl, there is a charming swagger coat that has an old-fashioned look because it has nutria in a vertical trim, as well as around the flaring bottom. This coat has a grand Ascot tie, nutria edged, and the cutest little muff. Also its sleeves are the last word, long-cuffed and full raglan cut above.

For the woman, who can afford

For those who can afford an afternoon fur coat, a new grey broadtail with silver fox collar is elegance personified. This is the type of coat that makes you hold your head proudly when you walk into any kind of afternoon or evening party, for it is equally as good over formal afternoon things or evening ones. The handsome round fox collar can be left open, for daytime, or fastened high about your neck for evening. It has spacious wide armholes which give the tops of the sleeves tremendous width, but which taper down to tight cuffs. It fits like a glove about the lithe modern figure.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart.

This is the season when your eyes need an extra amount of careful consideration.

The first cooler winds can play havoc with your eyes. Not only do you have to guard against the dust and dirt which brisk winds carry with them, but the colder air itself calls for special eye care.

If you don't own an eye cup, by all means get one. Eyes should be bathed at least twice a day. A weak solution of boracic acid will rest your eyes at the same time it cleanses them.

If you have pains in your eyes or your head, see an eye specialist at once. It may be that you need glasses and it is poor economy to delay getting them.

Rest Tired Eyes.

When your eyes are very tired, closing them and covering them with a soft cloth which has been dipped in cold water often will make them feel better. Herbal packs are designed to soothe tired eyes. You dip them in water and lay them on your eyes for several minutes.

Never rub your eyes with your hands. In the first place, hands convey germs, and secondly, you're apt to irritate the delicate eye membranes. When you get a foreign particle in your eye, don't try to take it out yourself.

Be careful about getting cosmetics in your eyes. Apply them cautiously and don't use too much at a time.

CHAPTER XXVIII

"The girl said, 'But I don't see why you're doing all this for me. I don't understand—'"

Bannister leaned forward and spoke to the taxicab driver. "It's the next house on your right," he said. "The white one. Yes—that's right!"

The cab halted and Bannister stepped out. "Here we are!" he said, turning to give the girl his hand.

She stepped to the sidewalk and looked at the small white house, set well back from the street. The tall elms and maples made the house seem smaller than it was. Although it was November the grass was still green where it showed between patches of dry brown leaves.

The girl looked at Bannister. "You're sure," she said anxiously, "that your aunt won't mind my coming here?"

"Of course not! She'll be glad to have you."

They went up the brick walk. There were two steps to the tiny square porch and before they had reached the top one the door opened. Kate Hewlett greeted them, smiling.

"Come right in!" she said. "Come right in!"

Bannister thought his aunt was looking very impressive in her dark printed silk with the lace collar. He said, "Aunt Kate, this is Miss France, Miss France—my aunt."

He wondered what his aunt really thought of the girl. There was no way of knowing. Women always smiled and talked at a time like that and said a lot of things they might or might not mean.

Mrs. Hewlett said, "Take off your coat and hat, my dear. Cold out, isn't it, even though the sun is shining. There's a fire in the living room."

She led the way into the adjoining room where a low fire was burning in the fireplace.

Juliet France paused on the threshold. "What a lovely room!" she said.

Kate Hewlett seemed pleased. "I'm glad you like it," she said. "Some of this furniture belonged to my grandmother. It's old-fashioned, but then I'm old-fashioned, too. Here, my dear, you sit here by the fire. David, you'd better put some more wood on—"

David replenished the fire. He noticed that Juliet France was leaning back in her chair and that she looked tired. Her face seemed thinner. Pale, too. Had she been so white that first day he had talked to her?

Mrs. Hewlett was speaking again. "I thought a little later we'd have some tea," she said, "but perhaps you'd rather go to your room now. Perhaps you'd like to rest for a while."

"Could I? It's—it's awfully kind of you to let me come here, Mrs. Hewlett."

"Why, I'm glad to have you. I'm always glad to see David's friends. If you'll come with me now I'll show you your room."

It was a bedroom with windows on the south and west. Afternoon sunshine was streaming through the ruffled lace curtains. There were tiny yellow field flowers on the wallpaper and a yellow and white spread covered the bed. The furniture was walnut except for a chair covered with yellow and white chintz. A door on the left was open, leading to the bath. Everything was crisply fresh, immaculate.

"I hope you'll find everything you want," Kate Hewlett's cheerful voice went on. "If you don't just let me know. Why don't you have a warm bath and then take a little nap? There's plenty of time. Just come down stairs whenever you're ready."

The girl turned. There was something almost tragic in her earnest voice. "Oh," she said, "I can't thank you! I'll never be able to thank you enough. Never—"

Mrs. Hewlett said, "I just want you to feel at home here. Come down stairs after you've had a good rest."

She went out, closing the door softly behind her.

Downstairs David Bannister was lighting his third cigarette when his aunt appeared in the doorway of the living room.

"David," she said, coming forward, "what's the meaning of this?"

It was not the same voice in which Kate Hewlett had spoken a few moments before. The voice was firm now, pre-emptory.

"What's the meaning of this?" Kate Hewlett repeated. "I want to know why you sent that man out here?"

Bannister stared. Then he said slowly, "Oh, you mean—you mean the new house man?"

"I mean the man who came here an hour ago and said you'd hired him. I want to know what you mean by doing such a thing? I don't want a man around here—"

"Now Aunt Kate, I don't want him and, what's more, I don't intend to have him! Wait a minute, Aunt Kate. Let me tell you about that man. Do you know he'd been out of a job for months, that he was practically starving?"

"He didn't look starving to me!"

"That's because I gave him money to buy a meal. Besides I think you really do need help around here. That's the reason I told him to come out. I thought he could take care of the fires and tend the yard and find a lot of ways to make himself useful."

Kate Hewlett sniffed. "I don't see any sense in it," she said. "I like to do things my own way."

"But a lot of this work is too heavy for you," Bannister protested. "You've got to take care of yourself."

"I don't care. I don't want him here!"

"Listen," said Bannister desperately, "you can't let the man go before you've given him a chance. Keep him—say, just for two weeks. At the end of that time, if you want him to leave I won't say a word."

"Well—all right."

"Where is he now?" Bannister asked.

"Out back of the house I guess. I told him he could rake the leaves."

Bannister beamed. "There, you see! He's making himself useful already."

"I could get old Tim Bailey to rake up those leaves for 50 cents."

In the face of this barrage Bannister departed. He found Jordan, the erstwhile policeman, setting fire to a small mound of leaves.

"Well," Bannister greeted him, "how are things going?"

Jordan straightened. "Say, Mr. Bannister," he said, "I don't think that woman wants me here! I don't know if she'll let me stay—"

Bannister shrugged this aside. "Of course she will. She didn't quite understand, but I've been talking to her. Everything's all right now."

"Are you sure?"

"Well—all right. But I've been on the force for seven years and this is the queerest job I've ever had. I don't know how it's going to work out—"

"It's going to work out just as we planned it," Bannister said crisply. "The girl is upstairs now. Her room's the one in the corner." He indicated the room he meant, taking care that no one, watching, would think they were engaged in anything more than a casual conversation.

"Oh—by the way," Bannister went on, "what's your first name?"

Jordan grinned. "Frederick," he said.

"Well, Frederick, you seem to know how to make yourself useful with a rake. You're doing a good job."

"Thank you, Mr. Bannister. I hope everything will be all right, the way you say it will."

"Oh, don't worry about that!" Bannister turned away. He wished heartily that he could feel half as confident at his voice sounded.

An hour and a half later, on the stairs leading to the editorial department of the Evening Post, he side-stepped swiftly, barely avoiding a collision.

"Hel-lo!" Bannister exclaimed. "Oh—it's you!"

J. Randolph Gaihey paused on the step above. "In person," he admitted, grinning. And then the grin disappeared. "Heard the news?" Gaihey demanded.

"No. What is it?"

"They've found Parrott!"

Coming QUEEN'S

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Picture fans who enjoy the lightning fast wise-cracking of Le Tracy will receive a "double portion" in "Turn Back the Clock," startling drama of a man who relives his life, which comes to-morrow to the Queen's Theatre. The picture, filmed by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, is based on an original story written by Ben Hecht and Edgar Selwyn, and shows the adventures of a man who receives a bump on the head and goes back twenty years to relive his life with the benefit of mature experience. Tracy blends fast-moving comedy into the most powerful portrayals of his entire picture career. His rapid-fire dialogue drives home laughs and punches in action that leave the audience breathless. Mae Clarke establishes herself as one of the screen's outstanding emotional actresses with her portrayal of Mary, woman smothered by the cares of marital existence. She handles each scene with tenderness and depth of understanding. A new player destined to go far on the screen is Otto Kruger, who portrays Ted Wright, hardened materialist who stops at nothing to realize his ambitions. Kruger has a powerful personality which he blends into a characterization with absolute reality. Peggy Shannon is outstanding in the unsympathetic role of Elvina, who provides trouble for Tracy in both of his "lives." Others who deliver notable performances include George Barbier, C. Henry Gordon and Clara Blandick. Edgar Selwyn retained full power of the original story in his direction of the picture, which shows a keen sense of human interest values.

"Ladies Must Love"
What are the details of the private lives of New York's gold-digging damsels? What goes on in the boudoirs of these scheming "ladies of the evening"? What are the secrets of Broadway's professional purveyors of puerility? The answers to these interesting questions are provided in "Ladies Must Love," Universal's gay musical picture which opens an engagement at the King's Theatre, on Thursday, with June Knight, Neil Hamilton, Dorothy Burgess, Mary Carlisle and Sally O'Neil in featured roles. With Miss Knight as the principal soloist, "Ladies Must Love" abounds with tuneful songs, which have already become popular throughout the country. These include "Tonight May Never Come Again," "I've Got the Same," and "Three Little Maids," the latter sung by the other girls in a riotously active beer garden, scene of their first real work in a long, long time. "Ladies Must Love" is said to be the ultimate in gay, wise-cracking, intensely modern screen entertainment.

"My Weakness"
Lillian Harvey is co-featured with Low Ayres in "My Weakness" to-day at the King's Theatre. The story concerns a plain young girl who, quite by accident, becomes a much sought-after person. It is more or less in the nature of a wager that she cannot be made attractive, that she is first put on the road to fame for her beauty. She follows victim with victim, until the very man who made the disparaging wager falls a victim himself. "My Weakness" has been produced under the supervision of Buddy De Sylva, producer of Janet Gaynor's unforgettable "Sunny Side Up". He brings to his screen efforts unbroken record of some of the most successful productions of the musical stage. The story of "My Weakness" is of his own authorship and, with Leo Robin and Richard Whiting, also wrote the music and lyrics.

ROOSEVELT AND CONGRESS

be plausible to argue that the only real heresy consisted in the method of getting the notes into active circulation, for a very large number of notes would have to be printed before Mr. Roosevelt formally infringed the legal minimum gold cover.

There is unquestionably an element of risk in such a policy, which would only be justified by Mr. Roosevelt's need for quick results. But the risk is probably less than the sinister spectre of "sound money" advocates is willing to admit, and it is difficult to believe that Mr. Roosevelt will be indefinitely restrained by the public prejudice against inflation, unless, indeed, he delays until the failure of his dollar exchange policy has so far weakened his authority as to prevent him from boldly embarking on further adventures.

Whilst, however, inflation might conceivably suit America in her present peculiar circumstances, let it not be supposed that it is to be recommended for use elsewhere as an easy panacea for depression. Unless handled with the utmost discretion, it is demonstrably capable of causing the gravest disasters, and few are the countries which dare establish it as a precedent without exposing themselves to its abuse by reckless or incompetent politicians. The warnings against it by financial moralists are in general thoroughly well founded.

THEFT OF MEAT FROM GLOUCESTER KITCHEN

Arrested at the rear of Gloucester Building in the early hours of Christmas Eve with meat, valued at $20, in his possession, Chan Kwok was charged before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court yesterday, with receiving stolen property.

Detective-sergeant Mintey said the defendant was arrested by a watchman. When questioned he stated the meat was given to him by Chan Kwai, a fitter at the hotel, who had absconded and could not be found.

Giving evidence, the watchman said that when arrested the defendant "trembled, shivered and stuttered."

Ng Chu, chef at the Gloucester, identified the meat.
The defendant was convicted and bound over.

"Night Night, Everybody"

I've Had My Baby's Own Tablets."

It will not be long before she is asleep, that sound dreamless sleep of healthy childhood, for her mother knows the value of Baby's Own Tablets and administers them whenever there is need. The little one likes them too, for they are pleasant to take, so there is none of the fuss associated with giving doses of Castor Oil and other nauseating medicines.

Unbroken rest is essential to the health of young children and to attain this the digestive organs must be working properly. If baby is restless, cross, and wakeful as a result of constipation, indigestion, "wind," a little dose of Baby's Own Tablets is usually all that is necessary to set matters right, and speedily to bring about peaceful slumber in a perfectly natural way.

The Tablets can also be used with good effect in cases of colic, croup, to check feverishness, expel worms and ease the pains of teething.

Keep a vial of Baby's Own Tablets in the house and you will have a remedy always at hand to keep baby fit and well. They are the prescription of a physician who made a special study of children's maladies. Obtainable from chemists everywhere.

A peach-bloom skin . . . dewy fresh "velvety soft" . . . invitingly cool . . . exquisitely clear and fine of texture . . . youthfully smooth, firm, supple . . . this is the gift
Pond's brings to you!
You know that your skin must be especially guarded in hot countries;
scorching sun and drying dust are dangerous to beauty. Yet you can golf, ride, travel: happy in the satisfaction of knowing your skin will not suffer from the effects of exposure if you give it this special care.
For you need not have a dried out,
coarsened complexion with Pond's Two famous Creams to aid you.
So, to give your skin the scrupulous attention it needs in a trying climate,
follow this way regularly:

Spread Pond's Cold Cream generously over face and neck. Smooth in with gentle upward, outward strokes. The fine oils search out dirt from the roots of the pores, and soothe that taut feeling after exposure. Wipe off
Cream and dirt. Apply more Cream.
Remove. Now your skin is thoroughly cleansed and refreshed.
Always do this at bedtime, and leave on a little Cream overnight to keep the skin supple and restore the natural oils
dried out by sun and wind.
After each daytime cleansing, apply a bit of Pond's Vanishing Cream to soothe, protect, and for a powder base.
Don't forget to rub some into your hands!
Follow the Pond's way faithfully, and a peach-bloom skin is yours!

AMERICA'S BURDEN OF DEBTS

Arguments concerning President Roosevelt's monetary policy are arising to heaven these days like a drifting fog about a mountain peak. And, to continue the metaphor, the peak which they veil is the enormous mass of debts piled up in the boom days. In other words, this pile of debts is the central fact in the whole matter. The pros and cons of inflation, managed currencies and the like hang over it, sometimes revealing it and sometimes obscuring it. In the boom days, farmers, business houses and industrial concerns went heavily into debt. Meanwhile, money became scarcer, and people found it necessary to conduct business and personal affairs with fewer dollars than they had before. But the mountain of debt remained unchanged, and it stands to-day, its crags gloomy and bleak. In one way or another, the mountain has to be whittled down in size. The efforts of the Roosevelt Administration may look too much like an effort to move mountains by faith alone to suit practical men. But the job has to be done: some way or another. Time will prove whether President Roosevelt's methods are right. There are people in America who do not like the idea of reducing the mass of debt by monkeying with the currency. What do they want, then? In some quarters, it is urged that there should be a scaling down of all fixed charges, from freight rates to utilities rates, coupled with a slash in mortgages, bonds and commercial loans. But here, again, we find opinion sharply divided. The task of America's statesmen is to find a way of getting rid of the load of debts in some way which the people will tolerate. The trouble is that some of the actual methods being employed by President Roosevelt are, in fact, adding to the burden rather than lightening it. All the huge loans which are a feature of his policy will have to be repaid some time. And the question which naturally suggests itself is, where is the money to come from? The Roosevelt plans have, as we have before pointed out, reached a stage in which there can be no going back. For good or ill, the die has been cast. Nothing less than the whole structure of capitalism is on trial. So far, no deep impression on the central problem has been made. It is still in the lap of the gods whether the Roosevelt policies will succeed or fail.

NOTES OF THE DAY

FILMS AND PEACE

Over 18,000,000,000 attendances are annually registered by the 61,500 cinemas scattered throughout the world—a number seven times as great as the total population of the globe. If so many people are seeing films, then their influence must be colossal, and one is forced to query whether the world-influence is altogether for the good. What ever may be one's personal answer to that question, nobody doubts that the influence of the film might certainly be very powerful for good and, internationally, powerful for the promotion of better understanding between nations. Peace-propagandists have concentrated on trying to show people the "war horror" films which shock people into a realization of the brutalities of chaos, but it is far better, without ever forgetting such possibilities, to turn attention to the future.

FILM OF REALITY

The film fixes actions and, through these, also thoughts and ideas in a form which can be multiplied by the taking of several copies and then distributed all over the world—or as far as that is allowed—and then shown simultaneously to thousands of peoples. It is the film of reality, and not that of fiction, which gives people a real knowledge of others, and it is that type of film which should be encouraged. It is exactly that type of film against which, however, national restrictions have weighed hardest.

ANOMALY RECOGNISED

Import and Customs duties on films are levied according to their length and without regard to the subject-matter. The educational film, made often on the least possible financial outlay, faces an important item in these duties, but to the entertainment film, made with a lavish expenditure of tens of thousands of pounds, the dues are a mere bagatelle. Furthermore, educational films have never contributed more than a very small fraction of a nation's revenues from this source. This anomaly has been recognised for some time, but clearly some central authority had to be provided which could discriminate between the two types of films. The International Institute of Educational Cinematography at Rome, is just such a body and now, by virtue of a Convention which has just been concluded between thirty-eight nations, that Institute has been invested with the power to grant certificates to educational films. This Convention is, therefore, an important, if small, achievement on the part of the League of Nations, for any films with such a certificate will be granted free entry to any of the signatory nations, including the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

MORE SEA SERPENTS!

The first officer of the ocean liner Santa Lucia is now sharing with the Loch Ness folk a grievance against the incredulous. The trouble, it seems, is that the first officer saw a sea serpent, told about it—and discovered that nobody believed him, even made rude jokes. The glimpse was vouchsafed to him as the ship was in the straits of San Juan de Fuca. The creature he saw was "a great, coil-like monster," with red and green eyes, seven humps like a camel, and a face like a cow. It appeared to measure some 90 feet in length, and it gave a great bellow before diving out of sight. Our sympathies in the matter rest entirely with the mariner. If there are no monsters like this one, there certainly ought to be. A world that can generate such fantastic creatures is infinitely more interesting and exciting than one which cannot.

THE PRICE OF 'SKILL'

One of the most interesting lawsuits for some time is the action filed against a New York legal firm the other day by Mr. Conrad H. Mann, former head of the Eagles' lodge. Mann was convicted of violating lottery laws, and promptly was pardoned by President Roosevelt. The firm which he has sued served as his counsel during his trial, and he is asking the damages as compensation for "humiliation, shame, and disgrace" suffered through alleged unskillful handling of his case. The action raises a neat question: What claim has a client on his lawyer if he feels that his lawyer hasn't done his best for him? Mr. Mann feels that proper conduct of his case would have won him acquittal. Whether he will be able to persuade a court that this contention is correct is another question; meanwhile, the legal profession gets an interesting new angle on the old problem of a lawyer's relation to his client.

ROOSEVELT AND CONGRESS

By J. C. JOHNSTONE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS engaged in a desperate race against time. In January he must give to Congress an account of his stewardship. To retain his freedom of initiative and his political ascendancy over that extremely jealous and critical assembly, he must be able to justify his policy by results. Less than two months hence there must be plausible evidence that the tide of prosperity is once more on the rise, and that it is Mr. Roosevelt who commands the tide.

If he continues to pin his faith in his present policy, his chances of success appear to be slight. It is vital to his whole plan that the enforced depreciation of the dollar should be accompanied by a sharp rise in commodity prices. But so far prices have remained obstinately unresponsive, and Professor Sprague is perfectly right when he says there is no inherent reason why they should be anything else.

The dollar exchange policy is placing Mr. Roosevelt in a cleft stick. It can only succeed in raising prices if it succeeds in frightening holders of dollars into commodities. But it will only frighten them if the dollar appears to be getting out of hand. That, however, as Mr. Roosevelt is evidently aware, would spell complete disaster. He has already shown that he is both able and determined to keep the dollar under control, and to permit depreciation only at his own pace.

But by keeping the dollar under control he removes all ground for fright. It is a safe calculation that he is not going to allow the dollar, which now stands at about 60 cents, fall below 50 cents. A dollar pegged at this minimum, however, carries with it no economic reason for more than a fractional rise in domestic commodity prices. Mr. Roosevelt, accordingly, is in the position of either having to burn his house down to roast his pig, or else of having no roast pig; and it must be concluded that the pig will remain unroasted.

Apprehension, indeed, is being expressed in America on another score. Government bonds have commenced to fall under the influence of Mr. Roosevelt's dollar policy, and it is suggested that this fall will presently gather such momentum as to put the Treasury out of court as a borrower. In that case it would be compelled to inflate both to meet substantial pending maturities and to defray current expenditure, and the stage would be set for uncontrolled inflation. Psychology is no inconsiderable factor that it would be unwise to rule out this possibility. A serious fall in Government credit, however, is scarcely likely except as a symptom of panic—and panic, as we have shown, is an improbable consequence of the present policy.

A curious thing about Mr. Roosevelt is his inhibition against direct inflation by resort to the printing press, which would soon solve the price problem for him. Why should a man who so gallantly throws orthodoxy to the winds boggle over assailing its last entrenchment? The answer seems to lie in the still vivid memories of the disastrous consequences which overtook Germany, France, and other Continental inflation-addicts after the War. Is there, then, any warrant for believing that similar consequences would attend an inflationary experiment by Mr. Roosevelt? That basic ground of hostility to inflation was summed up in a resolution adopted by the Advisory Council of the Federal Reserve Board last week. "History," they said, "shows that the further currency inflation goes the more difficult it becomes to control, and that it invariably results in untold losses to the great masses of the people and the ruin of the national credit."

Mr. Roosevelt, if he were so minded, could return a ready answer to the Advisory Council. He could point out that history, in fact, affords no support for the assumption that inflation is difficult to control unless the circumstances in which it was initiated were outside the control of the Government.

The French Government, for instance, when it inflated in 1926-6 with notoriously ruinous results, was not a free agent. It had a yawning Budget deficit which it was unable to bridge either by reducing expenditure or by increasing taxation. In order to cover current expenditure it had no resource but to obtain revenue by printing notes. As a result partly to the direct influence on prices of the additional notes, partly of the general breakdown of confidence, Government expenditure rose as fast as the printing press turned out the notes, and so the "vicious circle of inflation" was set in motion. The significant feature about this is that the French Government was acting from the start and throughout under duress, and everyone knew that it could not help itself. All the other Continental Governments which inflated after the War were more or less similarly placed.

Mr. Roosevelt, on the other hand, would be able to produce convincing evidence that he was in an utterly different position. He has no unusually alarming Budget deficit and he is not at his wits' end for new revenue. He is an absolutely free agent at the start to inflate or not to inflate. The rise in prices which was the main source of the French Government's anxiety, is the main object of his ambition. He could inflate in large doses or small at will according to the result, and as soon as prices showed a satisfactory response he could stop. There would be no danger of his Budget getting out of balance. On the contrary, he might argue, the general stimulus to economic activity would increase his revenue and render his Budget easier—not more difficult—to balance.

If Mr. Roosevelt chose to inflate, his probable procedure would be to pay for special public works schemes in non-interest bearing bonds exchangeable at the bank for cash. It is not likely that the printing press would be kept at all busy; one or two small issues would suffice to send holders of dollars scuttling into commodities, and up would go prices. It would

COUNTESS CARLISLE.

VICTIM OF PLANE CRASH
LEAVES HOSPITAL

Shanghai, Dec. 26.
The Countess of Carlisle, niece of Sir Miles Lampson, is leaving hospital to-morrow.—Reuter.

Lady Carlisle was seriously injured in the crash of the Shanghai-Canton mail plane on November 24, when the machine piled up on a mountain side on Chushan Island.

The painful journey from Chushan to Shanghai was accomplished by boat and motor car, and Lady Carlisle was admitted to hospital early on the morning of November 26.

Lady Carlisle was on her way to pay a visit to Canton and Hongkong when the accident happened. She had been visiting Sir Miles Lampson, then Minister to China, and travelling about China for some six months.

The Countess is the oldest daughter of Baron Ruthven and wife of the Earl of Carlisle.

OVALHALF MILE BRICK
WALL

COSTING £3,000

London.

Surrey County Cricket Club, whose accounts are expected to show a profit of more than £1,000, are putting several schemes in hand for improving Kennington Oval, in readiness for next season.

In place of the wooden fencing which now surrounds the ground, a brick wall 10 feet high and half a mile long is being built at the cost of between £3,000 and £4,000. This sum, the Committee anticipate, will be offset by the decreased cost of the repairs.

Amenities for the shilling spectator will be improved by the fitting benches capable of seating 1,250 people, and additional seats for another 500 are to be provided. The Surrey Committee are considering the reduction of some of the stand prices for certain games, while arrangements regarding the free stand may be altered.

For the convenience of members and the public and to facilitate the work of the staff, additional office accommodation is planned, with a separate entrance for those who wish to make inquiries and buy tickets.

MANY OFFERS MADE

Or Larry Gains

London.

Paolino Uzcudun, the Spanish holder of the International Boxing Union European Heavyweight title, who recently won the whole 15 rounds with Carnera in Rome, is said to have received since that fight many offers for matches, especially in the United States.

His manager in Madrid is reported also to have had an offer for a fight between Uzcudun and Larry Gains or Don McCorkindale.

According to an announcement made in Brussels, Larry Gains, in the meantime, is to have a match with the Belgian heavyweight Pierre Charles, at Hull.

Charles knocked out the former British Champion Reggie Meen, in the fifth round in a fight last September.

Bringing the English mails, the P. and O. liner Corfu is due here from Singapore at 9 a.m. to-morrow.

The Chinese Catholic Young Men's Society will be holding its annual function in honour of its patron saint, St. John the Evangelist, at its club in 10, Caine Road, this evening at 8 o'clock.

The condition of Mrs. Dorothy Norman, who was admitted on Saturday to the Kowloon Hospital suffering from the effects of a poisonous fluid stated to be Lysol, has distinctly improved, according to information from the hospital yesterday.

Rizal Day will be celebrated on Saturday next, December 30, at Lane Crawford's Restaurant. Film will start at 1 p.m., followed by music, songs and a dance. Judge A. R. Teodoro of the Philippines will take the chair. Invitation tickets can be obtained either from Mr. R. Bana or Dr. Alencas.

The P. and O. liner Carthage, from Shanghai, is due here at 6 a.m. on Friday.

The P. and O. s.s. Bhutan is due here from Singapore at 6 a.m. on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lauder and Miss H. Lauder returned to the Colony from Manila by the Empress of Canada. Mr. W. J. Bell was a passenger by the same liner.

WOMAN SHOT IN
COURTALLEGED ASSAILANT
ARRESTED

London, Nov. 20.

A shot fired just outside the waiting-room of a London police court; two women running screaming into the court where the magistrate was hearing a case; a third woman carried unconscious into an ante-room with a wound in the breast; a man taken to the goler's room and arrested.

Such was the dramatic prologue to the appearance in the South Western police court yesterday afternoon of George Kypranous, a Cypriot, of Coral-street, Lambeth, on a charge of attempting to murder Miss Ada Isaac (25), of Wadhurst-road, Battersea.

Miss Isaac was holding a baby in her arms when the shot was fired. She fell, but the baby was unharmed.

In the Dock.

Within an hour of the shooting Kypranous appeared in the dock.

Detective Inspector Worth gave evidence of arrest. He said that after being cautioned Kypranous asked, "Is she dead?" When told "No," he said: "It was her fault, but I know I did wrong. She took me away from my business and my wife and three children. I forgot my business and could not sleep. It is better that I am finished. All this is brought about because she asked for £10."

A remand was ordered.

"KEEP YOUR POWDER DRY"

The Rev. J. R. C. Forrest, Vicar of Swanbourne, Winslow, Bucks, speaking at a men's meeting at Bletchley, referred to the "No Fight" resolution recently passed by the Oxford Union.

Shrewd people, he said, know perfectly well that such resolutions and others similar passed at various Labour conferences were not worth a snap of the fingers.

What would they do when Germany got on her legs again? Germany throughout her history had worshipped war, and worshipped it to-day. England had never been able to keep out of war. Therefore we should take the advice of that great soldier, Oliver Cromwell—"Trust in God and keep your powder dry."

Mr. Forrest added: "If you don't have this spirit I warn you that your children will curse your memories and your blindness when they are up against a powerful country like Germany. Look at Russia, an atheistic country. Do you mean to say that they are going to keep quiet? What scruples will they have or what scruples will Japan have for that matter? Will she take any notice of your resolutions? Not if she gets a chance."

"Remember what human nature is. What are your children going to be like if you keep up this pacifist cry?"

Y.M.C.A. CAROLS.

MALE AND FEMALE CHOIRS
COMBINE

A short Carol service was held at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday evening last at 9.15 o'clock. For the true spirit of Christmas, in the feeling of heartiness of the singing and warmth of the good fellowship, this service would be hard to beat. Community singing was the programme's announcement of the various carols in which the audience was asked to join; but there was a reverence about the singing as well as a heartiness which turned one's thoughts instinctively to the first Christmas and the infant Lord in the Manger.

Both the male and female choirs took part, the Ladies being under the leadership of Miss Irene Roe, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., and the men under Mr. Rupert Baldwin, A.T.C.L. Solos were rendered by Miss Roe, "Twins in a lowly Manger" (Stanley Taylor), Mr. J. W. Baldwin, "One winter night" (Reginald Hunt) and Masters Burn and Gibson "Christmas prithos ho though drear" (Marlin Shaw) Miss M. Rice accompanied.

The Rev. Frank Short conducted the devotional part of this very happy service in prayer and seasonable readings from the Divine Word.—Contributed.

T. A. PEARCE IN FINE FORM

SUCCESS WITH BAT & BALL AGAINST ARMY

CLUB WIN FIRST T.T. MATCH BY AN INNINGS

MCINNES OPENS HIS SHOULDERS

(By R. Abbit)

AS Saturday's close of play indicated, the Club yesterday won the triangular tournament cricket match against the Army in a very comfortable manner, dismissing their rivals in the second innings for 102 to win by an innings and 29 runs.

T. A. Pearce carried off the major honours of the match, scoring 67, and in all, capturing 9 wickets for 37 runs. I. McInnes helped to brighten yesterday's rather dull play with a sparkling innings of 40 not out.

There was not much sun about yesterday morning and as the day wore on it became very dull and overcast. Nor did the majority of the cricket serve to brighten it. The Army continued to field very well and their bowlers worked hard; but apart from T. A. Pearce and I. McInnes the Club batting was pretty poor.

Pearce resumed his knock and proceeded to play Elvin—I am sorry we got his name wrong yesterday—with a good deal of respect but without much difficulty, and he hit the occasional one well and truly. In the first over he banged a full toss to leg boundary very hard. Garthwaite bowled at the Yard end and was very good save that he was short of a length a bit. He kept Owen Hughes very quiet, and as the effects of the roller began to wear off he had one on two wickets. Pearce put one down very hard for four and the score was increased by twenty three when Owen Hughes, who had made two in twenty minutes, tried to speed things up and hooked Elvin very hard. Dewey at forward short leg took a brilliant catch.

A BAD PATCH.
In was at this period that the Club lost three wickets in ten minutes. Hayward had only made five when a beautiful ball from Elvin pitched on his leg stump and took the off ball. Harley completely mistimed the next and returned it as tamely as possible to Garthwaite, close in at mid-off. The very next ball only missed McInnes' sticks by a cent of point, and he survived an appeal for stumped at the same time. He certainly was not out, but had been the Army might have put a very different complexion on the game.

He stopped with Pearce however while forty-four runs were added. Butler has relieved Garthwaite by this and sent down some useful stuff and then suddenly lost his length and there were two four byes wide to leg which certainly were not Colledge's fault. He then gave way to Dewey while Whitley went on for Elvin. The latter effected the separation, getting Alec Pearce taken for the wicket for a very nice sixty-seven. The out-going batsman had played infinitely better cricket in this portion of his innings and seemed comfortable all the time while some of the shots he played were delightful to watch. After he had gone McInnes bristled up and there was some quick running between the wickets. Whitley should have had him however as a long low hit to long-on was a shade misjudged by the fieldman, who had to go back a yard at the last minute and failed to hold what would have been a good catch.

DEWEY BOWLS WELL.
Dewey meanwhile was spinning the ball quite well, and turning quite a bit from the off. Beck soon went, ballooning one to Walker at cover. Dunkley however hung on a bit, and a great many angles came about now. Pearce was down for a hundred and ninety-three. Then McInnes got busy again and, with Divett keeping up an end, twenty were added for the last wicket before Garthwaite who relieved Dewey bowled Divett's off peg. He deserved a wicket, though he did not know slower than usual, owing to his damaged foot he kept a steady length whenever he bowled yesterday. Elvin bowled very well indeed and was unlucky. His figures were 21-4-57-4 and it was generally agreed that he might easily have had a couple more wickets.

It remains to be seen if he can stand being hit. If he can, he will do very well, but he will have to cut down his number of bad ones. From a bowler such as he, a bad ball is an almost certain four to any decent batsman. Dewey was out for eighteen but he was hardly on against the better bats.

THE FATAL TEN MINUTES.
The Army were left with a hundred and thirty-two to get to save the innings defeat, but, what was worse, they had ten minutes to get through before time. And they did not do it. Beck started sensationally. His first ball suggested he had mistaken Owen Hughes at second slip for the stumps, and roared away for four byes.

Then he had the batsman in trouble and off the fourth ball Owen Hughes dived forwards and got a fast low chance in his left hand and held the ball for a fraction of a second but unfortunately in failing he got his right elbow under him and the jerk not only twisted the ball out of his hand but partially wided him.

Luckily he was only laid out temporarily and went on to bowl at the Law Courts end. After two overs however he gave the ball to Pearce who got Sgt. Taylor caught at short third man off his last ball.

It was not a good ball, but the batsman's shot was worse. Beck sent down some fast stuff but he was rather uncertain in his direction and twice Dunkley came to the aid of the batsman. Pearce, however, was taking once wide on the leg very cleanly. Time was taken with the score at 13-1-2.

AFTER TIFIN.
On the resumption Colledge joined Williams and both played steady cricket for a bit. Beck was still uncertain of his direction and Divett relieved Pearce to allow him to get back to the Yard end which he prefers. In Divett's first over however—Colledge cut a ball hard and low to Owen Hughes' right hand and a very fine catch was made. The fieldman rolling over on the ground but retaining the ball.

Two for thirty-one was not so good, but here came the longest stand as Butler stopped while fifty-two runs were put on of which he claimed twenty-four as his share. Williams played dogged cricket though it must be admitted both batsmen had a fair share of luck.

It was not until McInnes went on that the stand was broken. In his first over Butler was dropped at mid-off from a hot drive but a ball or two later he nicked one and Alec Pearce made a quick catch at first slip. 83-3-24. I do not suppose that at that time anyone expected the Army with Garthwaite and Walker to come would be all out for an additional nineteen runs. But so it was.

A COLLAPSE.
Garthwaite came in third wicket down and as he was last out with only eight to his credit the complete collapse of the rest of the side is obvious.

The over after Butler went Pearce, who changed to round the wicket with three short legs, tempted Williams to have a snick and Hayward at forward leg held a brilliant catch with his left hand. The ball was hit hard and wide of him. Walker made three and then returned a simple catch to Pearce off what must have been very nearly a half volley. Two balls later Mitchell was bowled by a break-back and six were down for eighty-seven runs.

For a bit it looked as if Craig and Garthwaite might stop, the rot but they could not get the ball away—both bowlers sending down some excellent stuff.

Then McInnes got the next three, yorking Craig with a slower ball, getting Whitley taken at second slip—another good catch by Owen Hughes—and tempting Elvin to put one up to point. Pearce finished things by getting Garthwaite caught by Divett in his leg-trap. The Club thus won by an innings and twenty-nine runs.

A REVIEW.
A lot of the cricket in this game was not very good. Apart from T. A. and T. E. Pearce, Kilbee and McInnes the Club batsmen did not distinguish themselves. Their bowlers however did. Pearce's record for the match was nine for thirty-seven—two for eleven, and while there were no startling figures besides, the bowling was pretty good.

On the whole the brightest part of the game was the excellent fielding at both sides. Williams (R. T.) was shown that he can bat usefully and

Butler has possibilities though he hardly seems to make enough of his long reach. But beyond Garthwaite, there is not much else.

THE NAVY AND ARMY MATCH.

The same team will represent the Army against the Navy with the exception that Captain P. V. Williams returns to the side and Whitley drops out. This will make a tremendous difference to them. At least—this is the team I was told by their umpire (I think). I understood however from Walker that he will be unable to play and if this is so I don't know what will be done.

Pte. Dewey by his bowling and fielding has certainly strengthened his claim to a place in the side. I cannot help thinking that if available Bonavia would be their best selection. Colledge has shown that he is quite a capable wicket-keeper—he stumped three and caught one in the Club innings—though I did not think he was quite so good yesterday as he was on Saturday. I don't know the Navy side at the time of writing but I suppose that if available, Stevenson, Marham, Eaden, Richards, Carver, and Alexander-Sinclair will be the nucleus.

Given fine weather, which appears a bit doubtful at the time of writing, I fancy the Army will win but it should be an excellent game. I shall hope to deal pretty fully with it in my Friday article, as unfortunately I shall be able to see little if any of it.

U.S. GRANT TO OLYMPIC TEAM?

PLAYS PROMINENT PART IN CHINA'S VICTORY

WALES TO HAVE WORTHY FOES IN CHARITY CUP FINAL

YESTERDAY'S KEEN ENCOUNTER

(By "Veritas").

A huge holiday crowd at the Club ground yesterday saw China enter the final of the International Charity Cup, when Portugal were beaten by five goals to two. In several respects it was a typical "after the night before" game, both teams appearing rather lackadaisical. Neither reached top form, but the Chinese were the better team and deserved to qualify as Wales' opponents.

China did not get on top until the last fifteen minutes. Then, playing four forwards, they overran the weary Portugal defence and rattled the net with three rapid goals.

The match was a personal triumph for Tay Qua-tong, who, brought in to replace Wong Mee-shun at inside right, gave his cleverest display, to date in local football.

He worked in perfect understanding with Au Kim-fung and Yeung Shui-yic, and so closely did he attend Gomes and Silva-Netto, that the Portugal backs finally broke down.

The speed and snap which characterised the movements of the Welshmen on Christmas Day was markedly absent in this match, but there was a considerable amount of neat passing accomplished by both teams, and the exchanges, except for a brief interval at the beginning, were never dull.

PORTUGAL HOLD THEIR OWN.

Portugal held their own for three parts of the game. The forwards often attacked brilliantly, but they did not possess the same finishing powers of the Chinese, whilst they found themselves up against a more determined defence.

Ward at inside right caught the eye with his ball control and fine through passes to both Gomes brothers, and Betty Gosano on the wing supported ably, putting the ball squarely across the goal.

But A. V. Gosano was too well marked to prove the same effective leader of old, and time after time the Chinese defence cleared their lines.

The left wing was a definitely weak link in the Portugal attack. Ribeiro was overshadowed by Leung In-chun, who played at back with refreshing accomplishment, and Rocha could not get his passes going in the right direction.

The half backs started well and then apart from Elms, who stuck grimly to a difficult task, fell away and seemed quite unable to cope with the Au Kim-fung Tay Wau-tong combination.

Beltrao put in some useful work in the first half, and compared favourably with his vis-a-vis, Leung Wing-chui. But when the pace began to tell, the St. Joseph's pivot faded out. Marques never obtained the hang of Fung King-mu, and Silva-Netto had far too much responsibility thrust upon him as a result.

AS WELL AS COULD BE EXPECTED.

Judged according to general standards, Silva-Netto and Gomes by no means disgraced themselves. Whilst Portugal had a fighting chance, they put all they had into the job of keeping out the Chinese forwards, but after the fourth goal, they resigned themselves to the inevitable.

Marques in goal, given no chance with five shots, had the satisfaction of knowing that he saved at least five other scoring shots, and that his goalkeeping was worthy of the occasion.

China had a most unexpected line-up. Li Tin-sang, and Fung King-cheung were absentees which involved Tam Kong-pak dropping back to partner Leung In-chun, and the introduction of Au Kim-fung and Mak Sul-hon of the Athletic into the forward line.

The changes did not materially affect the players. Au Kim-fung, who failed in the Lai Wah Cup, was in significant form and led the forwards with marked skill, in addition to which he scored two goals—both of them beauties.

The Chinese forward line certainly put more vim into their labours than did the Portuguese, and once they had mastered the opposition, were just as effective as the best attack China could put into the field.

Both wingers supported their insides to their utmost ability, and taken by and large, the quintette was impressive.

Leung Wing-chui was the main-spring of the half back line, with Ho Choi-yin performing well on the right flank. Lee Kwok-wai was not up to standard, and it was not until Mak Sul-hon dropped back in the closing stages, that the Gosano-Ward wing was conquered.

Leung In-chun was the finest back on the field. His spectacular interceptions and powerful and accurate kicking delighted the crowd. Tam Kong-pak was reliable, but was not always seen to best advantage against the inter-passing of Ward and Gosano.

Wong Wing was remarkably safe, and fielded the ball with rare judgment.

China opened the scoring through Au Kim-fung, who took advantage of a mix-up before goal to net with a fast ground shot.

SENSATIONAL RESPONSE.

Portugal replied in sensational style. From the kick off the ball passed to Rocha, who returned to A. V. Gosano. The centre-forward worked through, passed to Ward, who took a first time shot, and Wong Wing sadly had to pick the ball from out the back of the net.

Au Kim-fung gave China the lead again before half time, but after the interval it was short-lived, A. V. Gosano converting a penalty, given presumably against Tam Kong-pak for handling.

It was after this that China were really roused, and Fung King-mu cut in cleverly to snatch back the lead. After this China could not be stopped, and further goals came from Tay Qua-tong and Yeung Shui-yic.

I still favour Wales to win the Charity Cup.

H.M.S. Medway met and decisively defeated H.M.S. Suffolk, at Happy Valley to-day by five clear goals, and thus captured the Div. III trophy for the third successive season. This is, I believe, a record for the competition. The score does not exaggerate Medway's superiority, who played like a winning team throughout, although Suffolk are to be congratulated for a very plucky display.

Play was even for the first five minutes, each goal being raided in turn. Hughes almost opened Medway's account, owing to Moss tumbling but the goalkeeper managed to scramble the ball away. After Glass had hit the cross bar with a great shot, and Moss had saved in great style from Walker, the latter rounded Eyres, and put Medway ahead. Almost immediately after Milan got away on the right wing, passed to Walker, who being tackled by Styles, passed to Chas the centre forward driving in a fast ground shot to put his side farther ahead.

CHARMED LIFE.

During one of Suffolk's raids, the Medway's goal appeared to bear a charmed life being at the forwards' mercy, Leech saving from Jones, and Sidney missing an open goal.

Medway tried hard to add to their score, but the Suffolk's defence although over-worked played up well and managed to keep their citadel intact until half time. Sidney was responsible for some good work during this period, dropping back and assisting his half-backs considerably. Half time—Medway 2, Suffolk 0.

After the interval Suffolk improved considerably, but generally their finishing was poor, several fine centres from Foster being wasted. Ten minutes after the interval Medway increased their lead. Walker heading in from Tarratt's centre after the left winger had been sent away by Bright.

Suffolk nearly scored, when Hall sent in a great dropping shot, Leech doing well to clear, and again when Morgan handled in the penalty area. From the "spot kick" Leech saved but the referee ordered the kick to be retaken, owing to defenders encroaching. Styles then shot wide.

Medway's fourth goal was from another fine centre by Tarratt, Glass heading in.

CUSTODIANS IN FORM.

Both Goalkeepers brought off good saves in turn Moss saving a pile driver from Tarratt, and Leech a high shot by Hall. During the concluding five minutes the

WOMEN'S TEST
TEAMTO VISIT
AUSTRALIAIDEA TO BE DISCUSSED

London. Australia wants an English women's cricket team to visit them and the matter is to be discussed at the next meeting of the all Australia Women's Cricket Association.

Miss Edith Thompson has reported officially from the English Association that a team of women cricketers is ready to pay all travelling expenses to Australia as soon as an invitation is extended.

Australia's share of the cost would thus be limited to the expenses of the team while there.

NEW SOUTH WALES KEEN.

New South Wales are very keen to bring about the visit. They placed the proposal before the last meeting of the Australia Association but both Victoria and Queensland decided to await the result of the Australian women's team's visit to New Zealand this season.

It is thought here that the New South Wales clubs will invite out an English team in the 1934-35 season, even if the Australian Association rejects the proposal.

Mrs. Hudson, Secretary of the Annandale Waratahs, one of the most progressive clubs in N. S. W., thinks that a visit from an all-England team would be in the best interests of Australian cricket.

"Hockey, swimming and lawn tennis have all proved the value of international competition" she said. "We have several players whom we consider up to world's standard, but the only way to prove their prowess is to let them play against other countries."

Suffolk launched a series of determined attacks at their opponents goal, but Magill and Richards usually had the situation well in hand, and cleared effectively. Right on time Tarratt scored the finest goal of the match, running through and beating four opponents, thus bringing his side's total to five.

For the winners Tarratt and Walker proved a formidable left wing, while Bright at left half was a very effective speller. The defence which was never very severely tested proved equal to all emergencies.

On the losing side Sidney was always prominent, Lewis in the half-back line was a great trier, and Foster on the left wing put in some good runs and centres.

The teams lined up under L. S. B. A. Shewbrook as follows.

Medway: Leech; Magill and Richards; Morgan, Barrett and Bright; Milan, Hughes, Glass, Walker and Tarratt.

Suffolk: Moss; Styles and Eyres; Turner, Thornton and Lewis; Oddy, Sidney, Jones, Hall and Foster.

PER CENTMAMAK WIN FOR
C.B.A.

HOLIDAY HOCKEY

The C.B.A. maintained their hundred per cent. record in the Mamak Tournament yesterday when they met the Medway at King's Park, winning by three goals to nil. The game was confined mainly to the mid-field and featured by some hard hitting. The C.B.A. were the better side, but the forwards frequently found their match in the Navy defence.

The Medway kept them in check until the closing stages of the first half when Hirst took up the wing on the right and after beating two men in the defence, shot from just inside the circle. Just before the whistle the Medway were penalised for an infringement in the circle and from the corner Whitley stopped for Halford to score, but the goal was disallowed for carrying.

In the second half the C.B.A. took a back seat for the first ten minutes, the Medway launching several attacks, but to find Pole and S. MacNider safe. They soon fell away and Whitley found the net to put the C.B.A. two goal up. Before final time Francis netted their third.

RADIO DRAW

Playing at King's Park yesterday the Radio shared honours with the Navy Lower Deck, each side scoring once. Johnson gave the Navy men the lead in the first half and after resumption Rulia Khan equalised.

Y.M.C.A. BEATEN.

The Y.M.C.A. went under to the South Wales Borderers by two goals to nil at King's Park yesterday. The Borderers were the better side and at the interval were one goal up. Pole scoring. In the second half they netted a further goal through Jones. The Y.M.C.A. were weak in the circle.

FAMOUS FINNS
SUSPENDEDOLYMPIC STAR OUSTED
FROM SPORTS

UNTIL NEXT YEAR

London. The Vice-President of the Finnish Amateur Athletic Association and three famous Finnish athletes have been suspended at a special meeting of the Finnish A.A.A.

Mr. Ossiin Roshlor, a Vice-President of the F.A.A.A., President of the Helsinki Athletic Club, the Helsinki Klavetkot and a member of the Local Insurance Company, was suspended from being a member of any sporting organization, and also from participating in an administrative capacity at any athletic meetings for a period of two years. The reason for the suspension is the fact of his having signed the now famous Nurmi-Wide letter in which he offered these two famous athletes a sum of money to appear. This was as far back as 1931.

LEHRINEN SUSPENDED.

Lauri Lehrinen, Finland's middle and long distance runner, considered by many to be at least the equal of Nurmi, and winner of last year's Olympic 5,000 metres at Los Angeles in record time, and holder of the British three miles championship for which he was awarded the Harvey Memorial Gold Cup, was suspended until June 1934 for refusing to take part in the international match held during British Week between Finland and England. Lehrinen gave his reason for not running that he did not want to neglect his business. He is employed in the Clerical department of the Helsinki Police. But the Committee considered this excuse was too thin.

Eino Purje, who finished third in the 1,500 metres at the Olympic Games of 1928 at Amsterdam, and also reached the final of the 5,000 metres, was suspended for life for being a self acknowledged professional and a member of the Ladoumex Athletic organization.

Antero Kivi, who finished second in throwing the discus at the 1920 Olympic Games at Antwerp was also suspended for life for conduct unworthy of a sportsman.

STORM OVER SQUASH
RACKETS TEAMTwo of England's Best Players Resign From
A Famous Club

London. F. R. Amr Bey, an Egyptian, who is acclaimed as the greatest squash rackets player in the world, has resigned from the Jesters' Club, the well-known squash club, owing to a disagreement with the Team Selection Committee.

The club is sending a team of five to the United States in the New Year on a country tour.

Neither Amr Bey nor P. A. Reiss of the Royal Air Force Club, was invited to go; Reiss also has resigned from the Jesters.

The Egyptian holds the Open and Amateur Squash Championships, and Reiss is one of the best players in the country.

Neither player would comment on his resignation, and Mr. Jack Burnett, secretary of the Jesters' Club, also stated he was forbidden to make any statement.

"Squash rackets is not the prerogative of any nationality or race," an authority declared, "and three of the most popular cricketers who have played abroad for England have been Ranji, his nephew, Duleepsinghi, and the Nawab of Pataudi."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney
Solution to Previous Contract Problem

It is interesting to note that the Auction Bridge Club of Chicago presented the American Bridge League with the national team-of-four championship trophy played for annually at national tournaments. And then—to show that it really had a reason for donating the trophy—it proceeded to win the cup.

This same club is sending a team-of-four for the first time to compete in the Vanderbilt, cup tournament in New York City, and to-day I am pleased to present to you the second member of the team, Dan M. Smith, who sat in the South position in the hand I shall describe, and who found the correct play to make six-odd at spades.

To-day's hand again brings out the fact that it does not always pay to ruff losing cards. West's opening lead was the king of diamonds, which South won with the ace. The ace of spades was played to learn the distribution of the spade suit, declarer playing the five (not the three) from dummy. East showed out on the first round, discarding a club.

Now, if the declarer attempted to ruff out his two losing diamonds, his contract would have been defeated. His proper play was to return a small spade, and when West played the seven, the eight in dummy took the trick.

A small club then was played, declarer winning with the ace, and, before leading another trump, his proper play was the five of clubs.

West trumped, and the small club was played from dummy. West returned the queen of hearts, which was won by the ace, and declarer led the ten of spades from dummy, overtaking with the king in his own hand. He then led a small diamond, trumping with the queen in dummy, and played out the king and queen of clubs. South discarded two hearts and West was forced to drop a heart and a diamond.

Today's Contract Problem
South's contract is six spades. The seven of hearts is opened. How can declarer make his contract against the best possible defence?

and overtaken by the four, and West was squeezed. He must discard either his last diamond or the ten of hearts, and declarer makes the remaining tricks. If West refused to trump the second club, Smith would win in dummy with the queen and immediately return a small club, trumping in his own hand with the king of spades. He then would finesse through West's jack of spades, and his only loser would be a heart trick.

THEFT OF SHAWLS.

EMPLOYEE OF SHOP TRIES TO PAWN ARTICLES

Six charges concerning the thefts of nine shawls and two ivory curios were brought against Lui Yuen-wun, 18, office coolie, when he appeared before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court yesterday morning. The complainants were the Tung Kau Import and Export Firm, China Building, where the defendant had been employed for the past year.

Det-sergt. C. Goodwin said defendant was arrested in the Tak Ying pawnshop, attempting to pawn a silk shawl for $5. Sixteen more tickets, in respect of other articles, were also found in his possession. The Police only put six charges against him but there would have been ten more. The property stolen was valued at about $600. Defendant was a clansman of the complainant.

Two months' hard labour was imposed, and defendant was further bound over in a surety for $100, for one year.

CANTON PAPER MILL.

CONTRACT INVOLVES OVER

As the outcome of three years' negotiations, the Swedish Trading Co. Ltd. have just concluded a very important contract with the Canton Government for the supply and erection of a paper and pulp mill. This scheme is under the control of the Bureau of Reconstruction and was passed with the Canton Government's Three Year Plan for the development and supervision of local industries.

When the scheme was first mooted, the Swedish Trading Company secured samples of timber from the North and West River districts, and these were sent to Sweden for experimental purposes. The results were most satisfactory, indicating that the timber available was quite suitable for the making of paper.

The whole of the machinery to be used will be exclusively Swedish, and engineers from that country will be sent out in due course to supervise the erection of the plant.

It is understood that the capacity of the proposed mill will be approximately 1,500 tons a month. The product will mostly be newsprint paper, although any other grade of paper will be manufactured should there be any demand.

Huge Sum Involved.
The agreement between the Swedish Trading Company and the Canton Government was signed just prior to the Christmas holidays, and involves a sum of between (H.K.) $5,000,000 and $6,000,000.

Work is to be put in hand immediately in Sweden, while arrangements are being made in Canton for the selection of a suitable site and the planning of the lay-out of the mill.

The machinery to be used in the product of the Aktiebolaget Karlens Mekaniska Verkstad, who recently built the largest paper machine in the world for the United States of America. It will be the biggest and most modern mill in China, and the only modern one in South China to carry out the whole process of the manufacture of pulp and production of paper.

PARTY FOR THE POOR.

CHINESE MOTHERS AND CHILDREN ENTERTAINED

A party given on Sunday to 200 poorer-class Chinese mothers with their babies, and other children, at the rooms of the Society for the Protection of Children, Kowloon, was a very happy affair.

It was organised by the Senior Inspector, Mrs. A. E. Perry, and Miss Tam. The first part of the afternoon was spent at a picture show, where the ground floor was reserved, and afterwards over 500 mothers and children were entertained at tea and given presents of bags of cakes and sweets in addition to toys, with more practical gifts to each mother.

The funds for this special party were provided by Mrs. F. H. Losby, who personally attended and presented the Christmas gifts to the mothers.

Other contributions towards the party were gratefully received from Doctor and Mrs. Matthews, Dr. T. Z. Bau, Dr. F. Kow, Mr. K. K. Wong and Miss C. Crichton Imrie.

NEW VESSEL READY.

CHINA NAVIGATION CO.
AWAITS YOCHOW

Built in Scotland for the China coast trade, the m.v. Yochow is on her way here from England. It is being dispatched by officials of the China Navigation Co., Ltd., the owners.

The new vessel is of 3,000 gross tonnage and is 300 feet long. Except for her being a motorship, she is a sister ship of the company's vessels Hunan and Hoihow. She will be employed on the Hongkong and Tientsin run and will be commissioned towards the end of January, line officials said.

The Yochow was built by the Scott & Greenock yard, on the Clyde.

NANKING PEACE DELEGATION

CLAIMS SUCCESS IN SOUTHERN MISSION

Nanking, Dec. 26.
Messrs. Chang Chi and Wang Lu-yi, members of the peace delegation which visited Canton and Hongkong recently, returned to Nanking this morning.

Mr. Chang Chi declared that his mission was successful, since the South-west leaders "realise the importance of internal unity at this time of external aggression and Communist disturbance."

Mr. Chang Chi stated that Mr. Hu Han-min offered much criticism but the delegation was deeply impressed by his sincerity and genuine anxiety for the nation's welfare.

The delegation will be submitting the report on their southern visit to the Government on Thursday.—Reuter.

REDS' VICTIM

ITALIAN FATHER IN CAPTIVITY

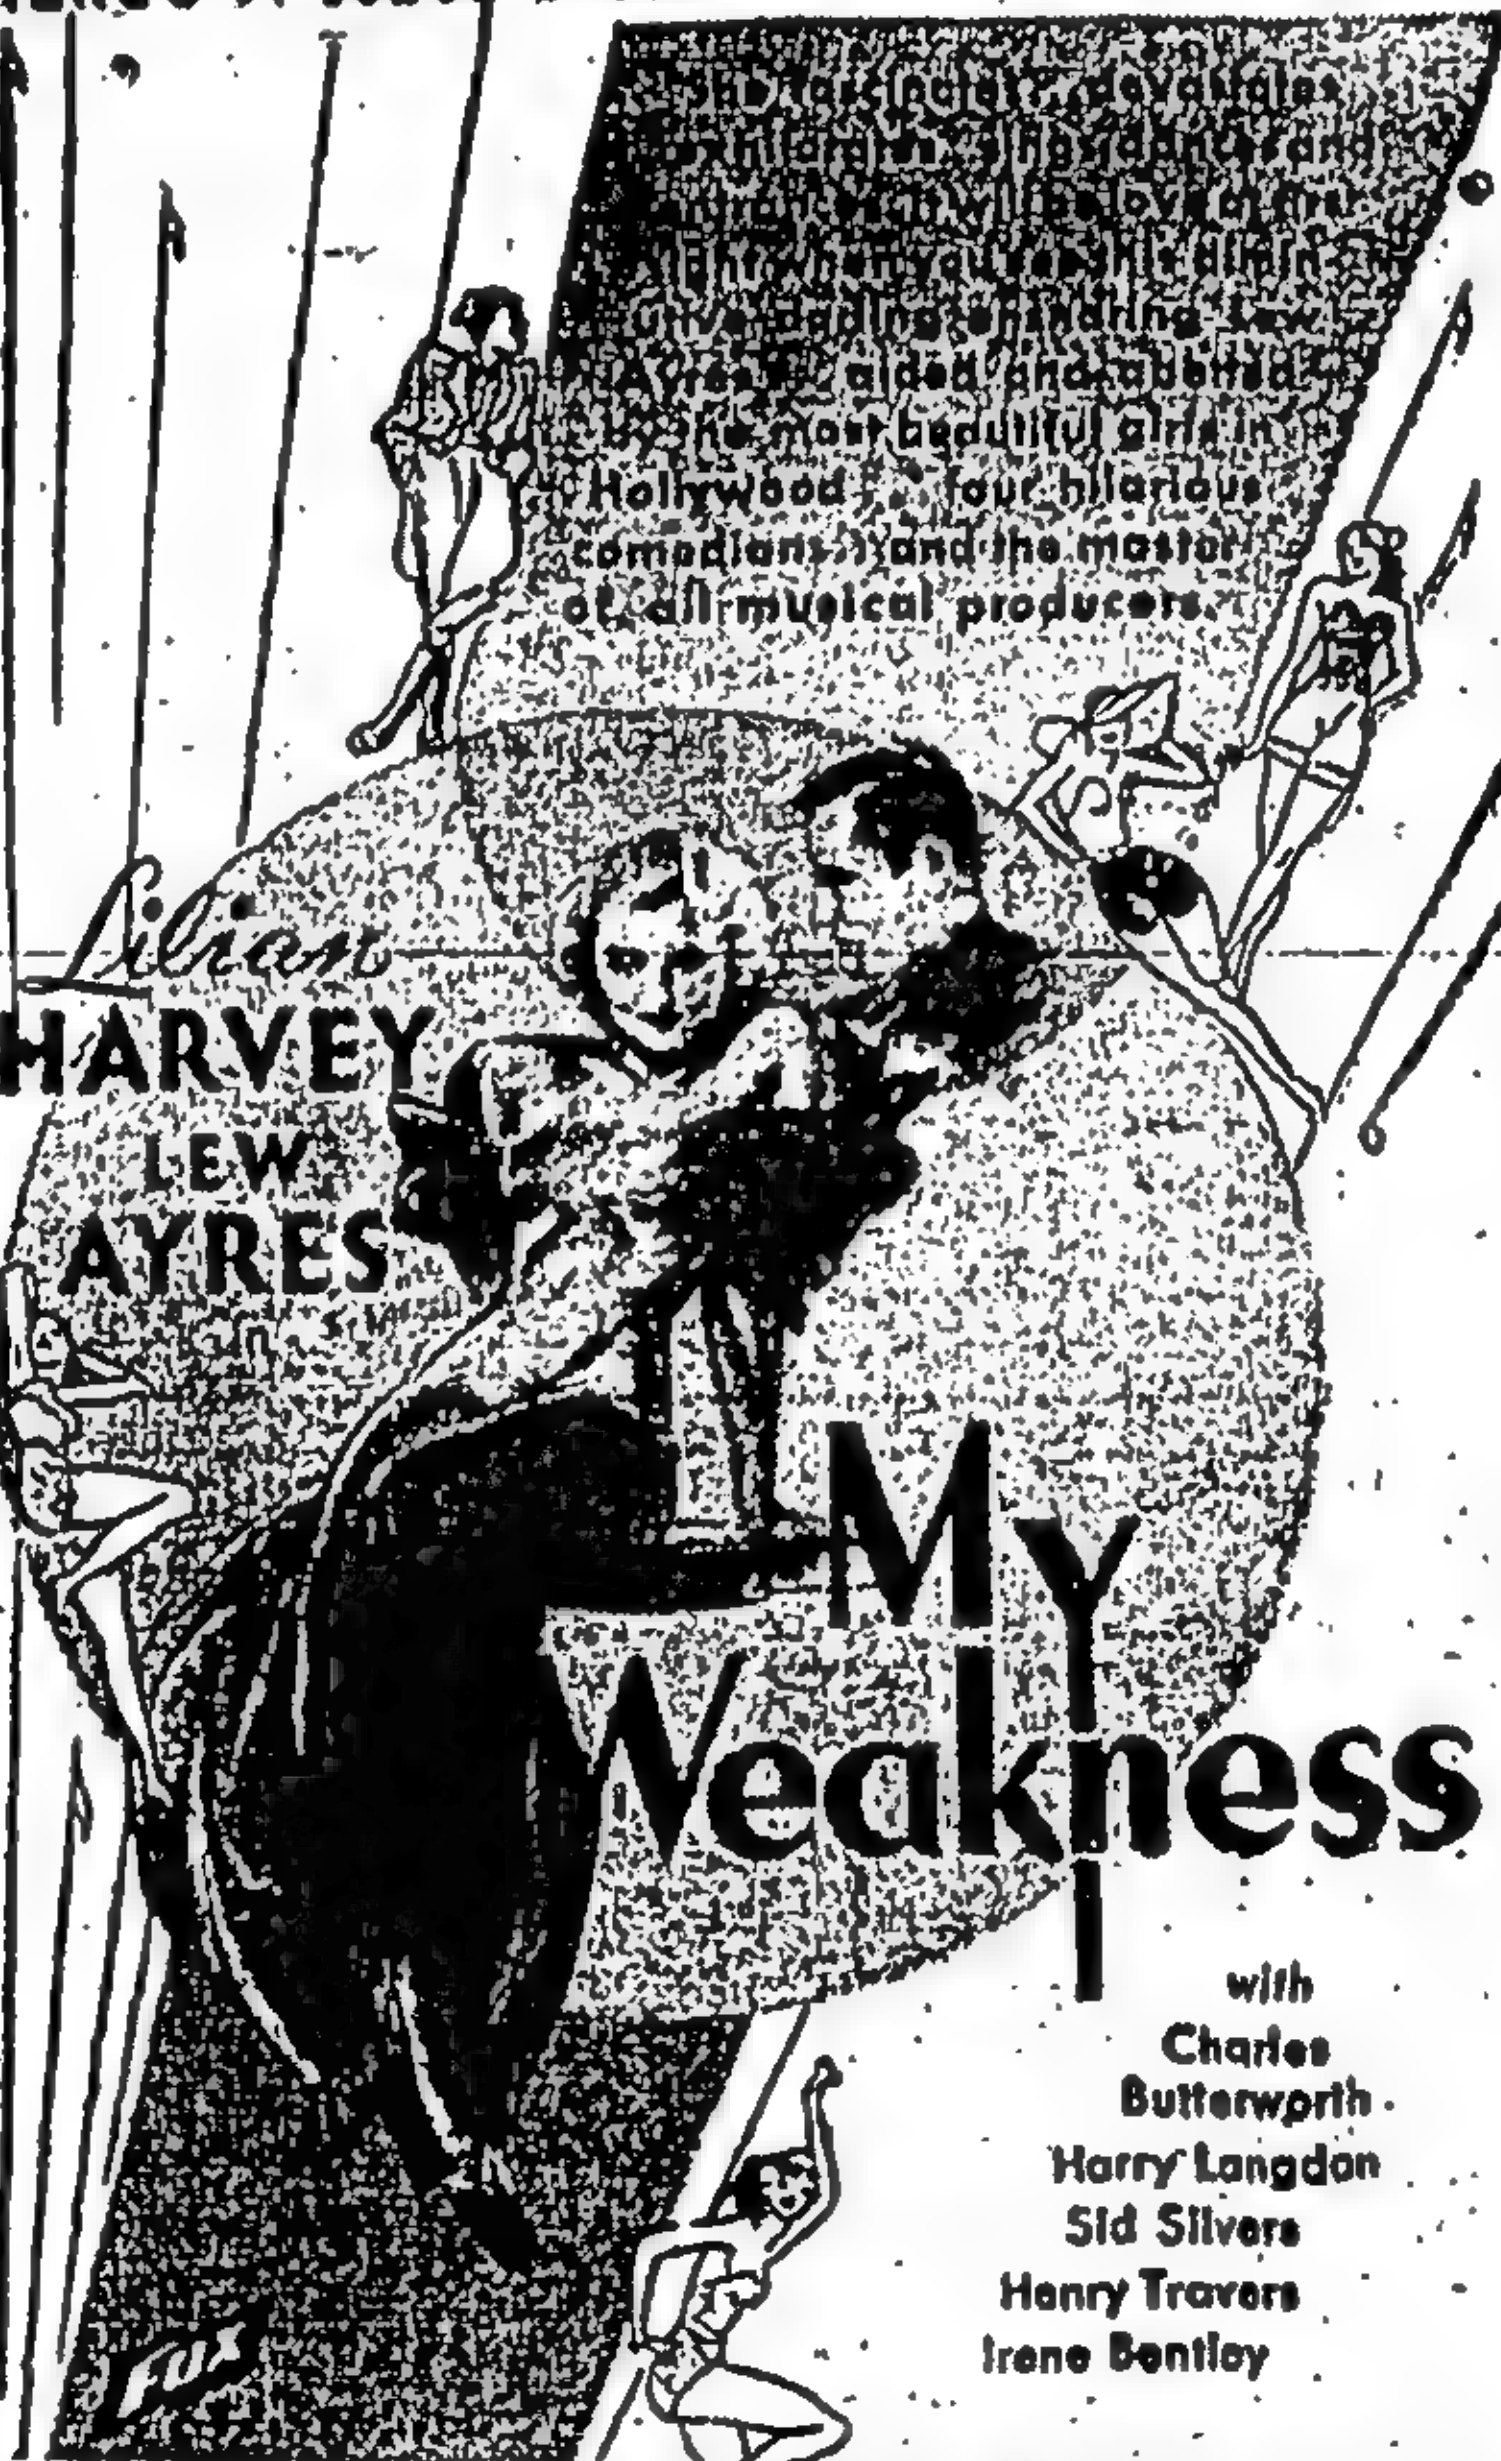

Peking, Dec. 26.
It is disclosed officially to-day that the Italian Vincentian missionary, Father Giacomo Anselmo, C.M., has been taken captive by Communist soldiers following the capture of the important town of Linkiang, in Kiangsi, just south of Nanchang.

The Kiangsi town, which is very near to the headquarters of General Chiang Kai-shek, fell into the hands of the Communists on Christmas Day. The Italian priest was one of the few foreigners who remained in an area threatened by warfare.

Father Anselmo makes the fifth Catholic priest now held by Communists or bandits. Some of the captives have been held for as long as two years.—Reuter.

CHRISTMASTIDE'S LONG RECORD OF TRAGEDY

FIGHTING ON FUKIEN BORDER

XIXTH ARMY MAY TAKE INITIATIVE

PINGNAN FALL CLAIMED

Hangchow, Dec. 27.
According to latest reports from the front, a severe engagement is developing in the vicinity of Shuntai, on the Chekiang border, where the situation is much confused.

The military authorities here, however, believe that no major fighting will occur before the Nanking order for a general offensive is issued.

Nanking claims the capture of Pingnan from the rebels after a six-hour engagement.

A Foochow message says that the rebel government council has decided to issue an order for a general attack on the Central Government positions.

Major hostilities are, consequently, considered likely sooner than Nanking expects. Panic rules in the city. Many inhabitants are leaving for fear of the reappearance of Nanking planes.—Central News.

ANOTHER AIR VISITOR

Foochow, Dec. 27.
Another Nanking plane visited Foochow yesterday afternoon, but after scouting for fifteen minutes made off without dropping bombs. Pedestrians stampeded to safety on her appearance overhead.—Central News.

It is learned that a consignment of planes and accessories is being shipped to Fukien from Kwangchow-Wan, and that the Nanking gunboats along the Fukien coast are maintaining a keen look-out for the ship.—Central News.

Nanking, Dec. 27.
Chinese newspapers give prominence to a report that Government forces are advancing on Yenching from Kienow, and optimistically forecast the capture of Foochow within a week.—Reuter.

CANTON DEMAND FOR REFORM

NANKING MEETING TO-DAY

Nanking, Dec. 27.
The Central Political Council of the Nanking Government is holding a meeting this morning to discuss the situation arising out of the demand of the Southern leaders for the reorganization of the Central Government.
The Peace Delegation will submit a report on the results of their visit to Canton and Kwangsi.
Dr. H. H. Kung, the Finance Minister, arrived here from Shanghai this morning to attend the meeting.—Central News.

London, Dec. 27.
The death has occurred of Mrs. Thomson, mother of the late Lord Thomson, Air Minister in the Labour Government who lost his life in the R.101 disaster at Beauvais two years ago.
Mrs. Thomson had been bedridden since learning of the death of her son.—Reuter.

FOOCHOW AIR RAID CASUALTIES

Eight Killed and Eleven Wounded

Foochow, Dec. 26.
Seven Nanking planes took part in the air raid on Foochow yesterday and fifteen bombs were dropped. Eight, including seven civilians, were killed, and eleven wounded.
The Confucian Temple was partially destroyed. All the damage occurred near military headquarters.
Twenty were killed and wounded at Kutien by air bombardment.

MURDER IN NEW YORK CHURCH

ARCHBISHOP STABBED AT MASS

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received December 27, 1.27 p.m.)
New York, Dec. 27.
Investigation into the sensational stabbing affair in the Armenian Church here on Christmas Day leaves little doubt that the murder was the result of a church feud.

The Archbishop Tourian died within a few minutes of the stabbing, which was carried out while he was celebrating Mass.
Two Armenians, both respected members of the community, were arrested after the outrage, one charged with the actual slaying and the other with being an accessory.

ORIENTALIST DEAD

GUY LE STRANGE PASSES

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received December 27, 1.27 p.m.)
London, Dec. 26.
The death is announced of Mr. Guy Le Strange, the well-known Orientalist, at the age of 79 years.
He was the author of numerous works, including "Palestine under the Moslems," "Bagdad during the Abbasid Caliphate," "The Lands of the Eastern Caliphates," the Persian text of the Nuzhat-al-Qulub, with translation of same, Spanish Ballads, "Don Juan of Persia" and "Embassy of Clavijo."

SOVIET COTTON CROP

INCREASE REPORTED THIS YEAR

Moscow, Dec. 26.
The Soviet cotton stock on December 20 amounted to 1,250,000 tons, exceeding the 1932 tonnage by a hundred thousand tons.
In order to increase the 1934 crop, the cotton districts in middle Asia and Trans-Caucasus have been supplied with a greatly increased amount of chemical fertilizers.—Reuter.

MANY LIVES LOST IN ERUPTIONS

SCORES DEAD IN MOTOR SMASHES IN AMERICA

LONDON, DEC. 26.

CHRISTMASTIDE THROUGHOUT THE WORLD WAS MARKED BY AN INORDINATE NUMBER OF DISASTERS AND TRAGEDIES. OUTSTANDING, OF COURSE, WAS THE LAGNY EXPRESS SMASH, BUT THERE WERE HOSTS OF TRAGEDIES OF LESSER MAGNITUDE BRINGING GRIEF TO HUNDREDS OF HOME.

Thirty people were trampled to death during a panic in a little church at the village of Tunauan in the Philippines.

A Christmas Eve ceremony was proceeding and a fireworks sparkler was used to illuminate the altar. Members of the congregation thought that the church was on fire and raised an alarm which spread panic through the congregation. A general stampede for the doors was made, scores being knocked down and trampled upon. Thirty died of their injuries.

The Philippines was also the scene of a volcano tragedy. Seventeen were killed and many rendered homeless when the Bulusan volcano erupted a flood of sulphurous water, which rushed down the hillside and swept away scores of houses, killing and injuring many of the occupants who were without warning.

FIRE TRAGEDY AT BATTLE CREEK

Another eruption occurred on the island of Kuchinoeraba, Japan, as the result of which four were killed, thirty injured. Many houses were buried in ashes.

The death toll in the United States was very heavy. Those reported already exceed one hundred and eighty, most of them as the result of motor accidents.

A blind woman and her infant daughter were both burned to death at Battle Creek, Michigan, when straws spread on the floor of her house caught on fire.

HUSBAND'S SACRIFICE

The woman's husband, who was attending another party in the neighbourhood rushed to the scene and was also burned to death in a vain effort to rescue his family.
Five persons at least died of cold in the Middle West which is snowbound, the roads being practically impassable. There are great drifts, while the ordinary snow blanket is feet deep.

GIRL'S SUICIDE

Another tragedy, the facts of which have not yet been elucidated, occurred at a party at Kenosha in Wisconsin, where a nineteen-year-old girl shot herself dead in the midst of the Christmas jollifications.

The wildest weather for years was experienced in the Aleutian Islands, which suffered very heavy damage in severe gales which swept through the island all through the Christmas.

Dwellings were swept away by the storms, the violence of which may be gauged from the fact that telegraph poles were found to have been bodily uprooted.

GRAN CHACO WAR

A Christmas armistice was arranged in the Gran Chaco where Paraguay and Bolivia are at war. The armistice plans have only made feelings more bitter on the Bolivian side which vehemently protested at the Pan-American Congress against the occupation of four Bolivian forts by the Paraguayans immediately prior to the hour fixed for the cessation of fighting.

A memorial service is being held at the Gare de l'Est in connexion with the Lagny railway disaster. President Lebrun will personally attend the service and will be accompanied by members of the Chautemps Cabinet and railway and other officials. Otherwise, the attendance will be restricted to relatives of the victims.—Reuter.

LAGNY DEATH-ROLL

Later.
The Lagny disaster death-roll estimates fluctuate hourly, owing to deaths of the injured.
The revised total is now 201, ten of those injured having died at Lagny, while the bodies of 191 victims are already resting in the Gare de l'Est.—Reuter.

PARIS ESPIONAGE ARRESTS

AMERICAN DENIES ACCUSATIONS

Robert Switz, the American arrested in Paris on charges of espionage, has denied all accusations.
French police declare, in connexion with the case that they have, however, smashed a world-wide spying organization, which included the United States and Japan, and covered industrial and economic espionage as well as military matters.

The silk industry was among those on which the organization was gathering information, police asserted.
Switz, 29, of East Orange, N. J., and Marjorie Tilley, 22, of New York, were among the persons arrested.

A taste of the Christmas pudding mixture for the troops at Aldershot, where hundreds were made by the N.A.A.F.I.

CHARHAR REBELLION

LIU KWEI-TANG ON WARPATH

CHIHCHENG TOWN PLUNDERED

Peking, Dec. 27.
Fresh trouble is reported to have occurred in Charhar, where the movements of Liu Kwei-tang, the former bandit leader who has changed sides many times, are now arousing concern.

The Chinese press states that Liu Kwei-tang suddenly left his garrison area for the south-west, after capturing and plundering the town of Chihcheng.

Some quarters regard this move as adding another revolt to the chequered career of the freebooter, who figured in the troubles in Charhar earlier in the year, on the side of General Feng Yu-hsiang.—Reuter.

DEATH OF NOTED ARCHITECT

DESIGNER OF BIG LONDON BUILDINGS

SIR FRANK BAINES

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received December 27, 1.27 p.m.)
London, Dec. 26.
Sir Frank Baines, the noted British architect, died to-day at the age of fifty-six years. He was for some considerable time responsible for the preservation of the Royal Palaces and other important buildings in England.

From the outset of his career as an architect, he showed that he had exceptional versatility and in the course of his career designed buildings of almost every type.

In the Government service he rose to be Director of Works in the Office of Works, a post which gave him charge of the palaces, the Houses of Parliament and a large number of historic public buildings and ancient monuments.

In the war, his professional ability was of great value in the designing of munitions works and other structures which it was imperative to erect in the shortest possible time. He was knighted in 1918.

COMMONS' DISCUSSION

After the war his services were much sought after by private enterprises and in September, 1927, he retired from the civil service to become consultant on architectural and constructional work for Imperial Chemical In-

HEAVY SENTENCE ON N.C.O.

WITH IGNOMINY

Found guilty by District Court Martial of the misappropriation of mess funds, Sergeant William John Thomas, 2nd. Battery R.H.K.S.R.A. has been sentenced to be reduced to the ranks, to imprisonment with hard labour for one year, and to be discharged with ignominy from His Majesty's service.
The sentence has been confirmed by the General Officer Commanding, who, however, has remitted six months of the imprisonment sentence.

Accused was charged with misappropriation of monies handed to him by his Battery Commander, Captain E. J. C. Barry, for the purpose of paying bills for articles for messes. In all, there were five charges, the sums involved being $69.10, $47.30, $52.11, $55.50, and $50.82, all payable to Messrs. Abbas Khan contractors. He was found guilty on all counts.

At the trial, Thomas made a complete denial of all the charges, alleging that the accusations were a "conspiracy."

dustrics, Ltd. He had already been engaged for some months on the designing of the new building at Millbank, Westminster, for this great concern. The announcement of his resignation provoked a discussion in Parliament, it being suggested that the undertaking of work of that magnitude interfered with a civil servant's duties to the State. In reply, it was stated on behalf of the Home Office that no reflection rested on Sir Frank Baines as he had duly reported the matter before undertaking the work and had been told there was no objection. It was not realized at the time, however, that the scheme was so vast a scale as to involve the expenditure of $370,000. Nevertheless the work did not interfere with his official duties. It was felt, however, it was added, that such an arrangement was not one that should continue and that Sir Frank Baines, who did not wish to relinquish the private work, would be allowed to retire on a pension.

In 1920, he was appointed architect for the rebuilding of Olympia, London's big exhibition hall, on a huge scale at a cost of $2,000,000.

TWO HOUSES GUTTED

BIG BLAZE THIS MORNING

SCENE OF PREVIOUS OUTBREAK

For 30 minutes, a fire raged in Chung Sau Lane West early this morning, destroying two houses and severely damaging several others, and bringing out no fewer than eight Fire Brigade appliances to the spot.

Chung Sau Lane is a narrow alley connecting with Queen's Road West, and spanning the 10 ft. gap intervening, the fire, which originally broke out in No. 24, spread across to the other side of the lane. No. 23, directly opposite, was also soon involved, and the situation assumed a dire aspect in this extremely congested area.

The Brigade acted with great dispatch. Earlier this month, the same lane had been the scene of a disastrous outbreak, and with a full knowledge of the danger, all fire appliances were rushed to the scene immediately on an alarm being sent through from Hollywood Road.

The lane was inaccessible to the larger appliances, but lines were laid from Queen's Road West and Koshing Street, and these got to work early on. Despite this, heavy damage was exacted by the flames, the two three-storey buildings upon which they had secured a firm hold being in the end destroyed, the roofs collapsing.

No casualties are reported. The fire originated in a shop occupied by a purveyor of seafood. A medicine shop was also involved.

SOVIET DIPLOMACY

"CHANGCHUN'S" FEARS

Moscow, Dec. 26.
Commenting on reports from Changchun indicating that the opinion held by the Manchurian administration that Russia is likely to strengthen her anti-Japanese policy, Pravda says that this may be ascribed to those who are trying by all means to violate the peace of the Far East.
The "Changchun suggestion" is that the Soviet, by strengthening an anti-Japanese attitude would thereby achieve more friendly relations with the United States and with China.

Pravda observes that only the most reactionary Japanese military circles may fear a possible rapprochement between the Soviet, the United States and China on questions of Far East policy.

Isvestia commenting on a Changchun report published in the Asahi alleging that the Soviet has agreed to rent Sakhalin to the United States for a period of thirty years, ridicules the credence alleged to have been given to the story in Japan.—Reuter.

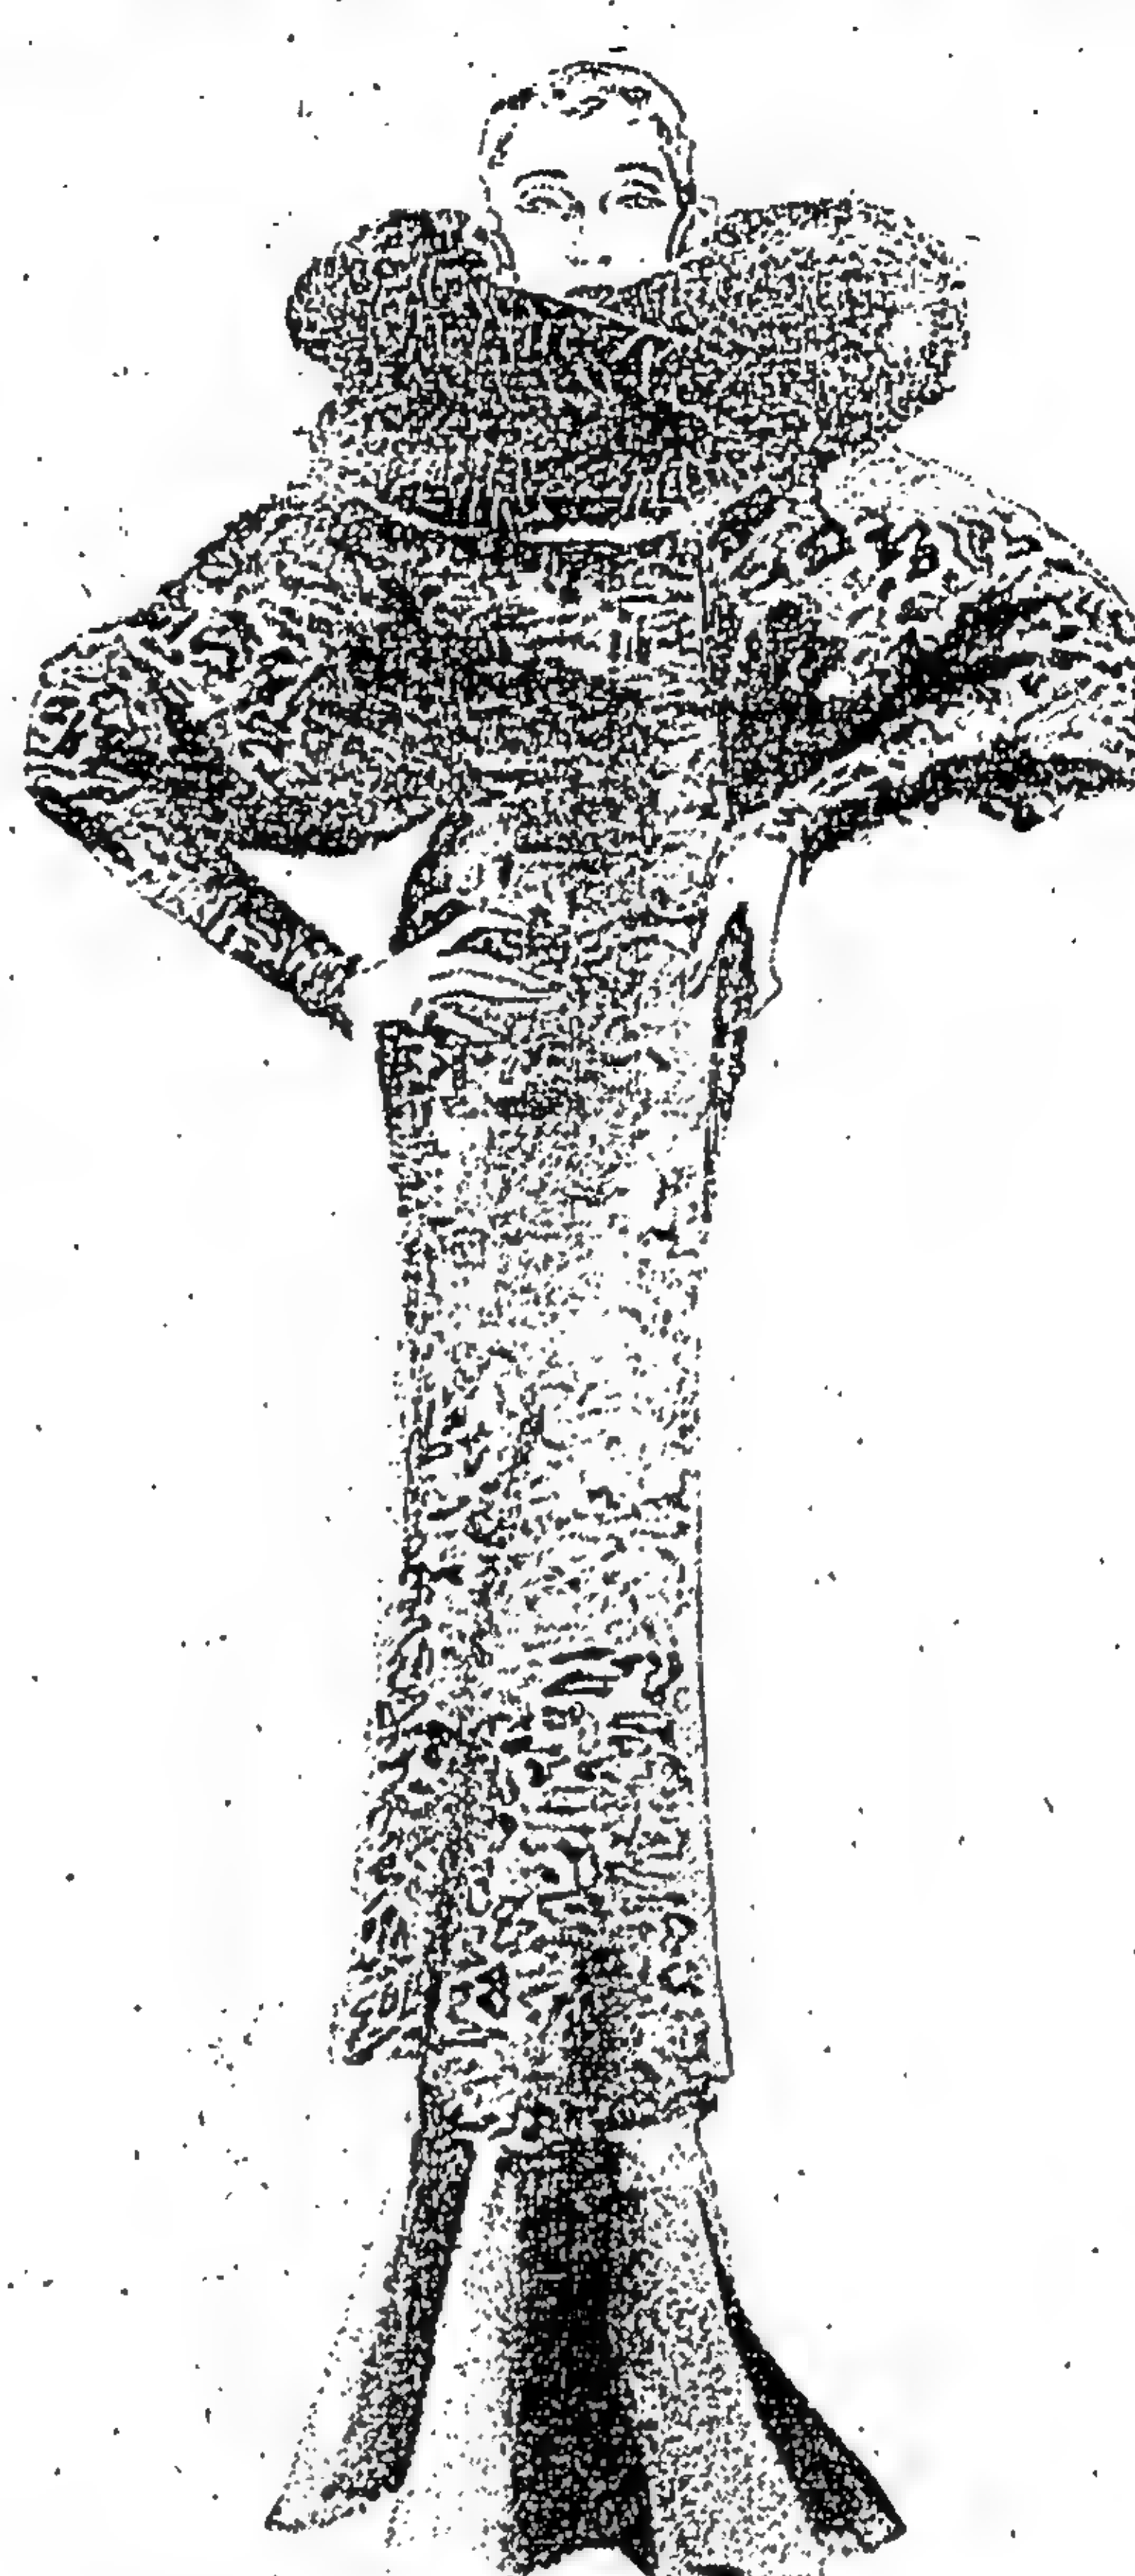

M. Troianovsky, the new Soviet Ambassador to Washington, who arrived as Russian envoy in Tokyo for two years, left Moscow for the United States yesterday, according to Reuter.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Moulded, Slender Cut Gives Suavity to Winter Furs

By Joan Savoy

Fur coats that bespeak "Winter, 1934" use high quality pelts as if they were fine fabrics, draping them softly, fitting them sleekly into flattering lines for the modern's slender hips.

Moreover, they incorporate into the make-up many of the suave new decorative features of cloth coats.

Collars, sleeves and the body-cut show decidedly that they are the woman, the society woman or young latest creations. The day when a girl, there is a charming swaggy fur coat was as good one year as coat that has an old-fashioned look another is definitely past. The because it has nutria in a vertical best furs are high-styled now. If trim, as well as around the flaring a second fur is used for trim, usual-bottom. This coat has a grand ly it is only for the collar.

The type of coat to pick depends both on your type and the uses are the last word, long-cuffed and to which you intend putting the full raglan cut above.

coat. There's a vogue right this minute for seal, the kind that looks it, there is a gorgeous, suave black brown when you blow into it. But careful, of the flat type of fur with it's a deep nap fur. Sleeker a handsome sheen to it. This coat caracul, or broadtail, take to the is distinctly modern in its moulded, new fitted lines better. Sportive slender cut. And it has one of the leopard or kidskin flare more handsome draped collars of the season, high, outstanding, luxurious, warm and flattering. One end pulls through the other, to hold it in place.

For those who can afford an afternoon fur coat, a new grey broadtail with silver fox collar is elegance personified. This is the type of coat that makes you hold your head proudly when you walk into any kind of afternoon or evening party, for it is equally as good over formal afternoon things or evening ones. The handsome round fox collar can be left open, for daytime, or fastened high about your neck for evening. It has spacious wide armholes which give the tops of the sleeves tremendous width, but which taper down to tight cuffs. It fits like a glove about the lithe modern figure.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart.

This is the season when your eyes need an extra amount of careful consideration.

The first cooler winds can play havoc with your eyes. Not only do you have to guard against the dust and dirt which brisk winds carry with them, but the colder air itself calls for special eye care.

If you don't own an eye cup, by all means get one. Eyes should be bathed at least twice a day. A weak solution of boracic acid will rest your eyes at the same time it cleanses them.

If you have pains in your eyes or your head, see an eye specialist at once. It may be that you need glasses and it is poor economy to delay getting them.

Rest Tired Eyes.

When your eyes are very tired, closing them and covering them with a soft cloth which has been dipped in cold water often will make them feel better. Herbal packs are designed to soothe tired eyes. You dip them in water and lay them on your eyes for several minutes.

Never rub your eyes with your hands. In the first place, hands convey germs, and secondly, you're apt to irritate the delicate eye membranes. When you get a foreign particle in your eye, don't try to take it out yourself.

Be careful about getting cosmetics in your eyes. Apply them cautiously and don't use too much at a time.

CHAPTER XXVIII

The girl said, "But I don't see why you're doing all this for me. I don't understand!"

Bannister leaned forward and spoke to the taxi driver. "It's the next house on your right," he said. "The white one. Yes—that's right!"

The cab halted and Bannister stepped out. "Here we are!" he said, turning to give the girl his hand.

She stepped to the sidewalk and looked at the small white house, set well back from the street. The tall elms and maples made the house seem smaller than it was. Although it was November the grass was still green where it showed between patches of dry brown leaves.

The girl looked at Bannister. "You're sure," she said anxiously, "that your aunt won't mind my coming here?"

"Of course not! She'll be glad to have you."

They went up the brick walk. There were two steps to the tiny square porch and before they had reached the top one the door opened. Kate Hewlett greeted them, smiling.

"Come right in!" she said.

"Come right in!" she said. Bannister thought his aunt was looking very impressive in her dark printed silk with the lace collar. He said, "Aunt Kate, this is Miss France. Miss France—my aunt."

He wondered what his aunt really thought of the girl. There was no way of knowing. Women always smiled and talked at a time like that and said a lot of things they might or might not mean.

Mrs. Hewlett said, "Take off your coat and hat, my dear. Cold out, isn't it, even though the sun is shining. There's a fire in the living room."

She led the way into the adjoining room where a low fire was burning in the fireplace.

Juliet France paused on the threshold. "What a lovely room!" she said.

Kate Hewlett seemed pleased. "I'm glad you like it," she said. "Some of this furniture belonged to my grandmother. It's old-fashioned, but then I'm old-fashioned, too. Here, my dear, you sit here by the fire. David, you'd better put some more wood on."

David replenished the fire. He noticed that Juliet France was leaning back in her chair and that she looked tired. Her face seemed thinner. Pale, too. Had she been so white that first day he had talked to her?

Mrs. Hewlett was speaking again. "I thought a little later we'd have some tea," she said, "but perhaps you'd rather go to your room now. Perhaps you'd like to rest for a while."

"Could I? It's—It's awfully kind of you to let me come here, Mrs. Hewlett."

"Why, I'm glad to have you. I'm always glad to see David's friends. If you'll come with me now I'll show you my room."

It was a bed room with windows on the south and west. Afternoon sunshine was streaming through the ruffled tie-back curtains. There were tiny yellow field flowers on the wallpaper and a yellow and white spread covered the bed. The furniture was walnut except for a chair covered with yellow and white chintz. A door on the left was open, leading to the bath. Everything was crisply fresh, immaculate.

"I hope you'll find everything you want," Kate Hewlett's cheerful voice went on. "If you don't just let me know. Why don't you have a warm bath and then take a little nap? There's plenty of time. Just come down stairs whenever you're ready."

The girl turned. There was something almost tragic in her earnest voice. "Oh," she said, "I can't thank you! I'll never be able to thank you enough. Never—" Mrs. Hewlett said, "I just want you to feel at home here. Come down stairs after you've had a good rest."

She went out, closing the door softly behind her.

Downstairs David Bannister was lighting his third cigarette when his aunt appeared in the doorway of the living room.

"David," she said, coming forward. "What's the meaning of this?"

It was not the same voice in which Kate Hewlett had spoken a few moments before. The voice was firm now, pre-emptory.

"Why, Aunt Kate—?"

"What's the meaning of this?"

Kate Hewlett repeated. "I want to know why you sent that man out here?"

Bannister stared. Then he said slowly, "Oh, you mean—you mean the new house man?"

"I mean the man who came here an hour ago and said you'd hired him. I want to know what you mean by doing such a thing? I don't want a man around here—"

"Now Aunt Kate."

"I don't want him and, what's more, I don't intend to have him!"

"Wait a minute, Aunt Kate. Let me tell you about that man. Do you know he'd been out of a job for months. That he was practically starving?"

"He didn't look starving to me!"

"That's because I gave him money to buy a meal. Besides I think you really do need help around here. That's the reason I told him to come out. I thought he could take care of the fires and tend the yard and find a lot of ways to make himself useful."

Kate Hewlett sniffed. "I don't see any sense in it," she said. "I like to do things my own way."

"But a lot of this work is too heavy for you," Bannister protested. "You've got to take care of yourself."

"I don't care. I don't want him here!"

"Listen," said Bannister desperately, "you can't let the man go before you've given him a chance. Keep him—say, just for two weeks. At the end of that time, if you want him to leave I won't say a word."

"Well—all right."

"Where is he now?" Bannister asked.

"Out back of the house I guess. I told him he could rake the leaves."

Bannister beamed. "There, you see! He's making himself useful already."

"I could get old Tim Bailey to rake up those leaves for 50 cents."

In the face of this barrage Bannister departed. He found Jordan, the erstwhile policeman, setting fire to a small mound of leaves.

"Well," Bannister greeted him, "how are things going?"

Jordan straightened. "Say, Mr. Bannister," he said, "I don't think that woman wants me here! I don't know if she'll let me stay—"

Bannister shrugged. This aside, "Of course she will. She didn't quite understand, but I've been talking to her. Everything's all right now."

"Are you sure?"

"Well—all right. But I've been on the force for seven years and this is the queerest job I've ever had. I don't know how it's going to work out—"

"It's going to work out just as we planned it," Bannister said crisply. "The girl is upstairs now. Her room's the one in the corner. He indicated the room he meant, taking care that no one, watching, would think they were engaged in anything more than a casual conversation."

"Oh—by the way," Bannister went on, "what's your first name?"

Jordan grinned. "Frederick," he said.

"Well, Frederick, you seem to know how to make yourself useful with a rake. You're doing a good job."

"Thank you, Mr. Bannister. I hope everything will be all right, the way you say it will."

"Oh, don't worry about that!" Bannister turned away. He wished heartily that he could feel half as confident at his voice sounded.

An hour and a half later, on the stairs leading to the editorial department of the Evening Post, he side-stepped swiftly, barely avoiding a collision.

"Hello!" Bannister exclaimed. "Oh—it's you!"

J. Randolph Gaineys paused on the step above. "In person," he admitted, grinning. And then the grin disappeared. "Heard the news?" Gaineys demanded.

"No. What is it?"

"They've found Parrott!"

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Picture fans who enjoy the lightning fast wise-cracking of Lee Tracy will receive a "double portion" in "Turn Back the Clock," a startling drama of a man who relives his life, which comes to-morrow to the Queen's Theatre. The picture, filmed by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, is based on an original story written by Ben Hecht and Edgar Selwyn, and shows the adventures of a man who receives a bump on the head and goes back twenty years to relive his life with the benefit of mature experience. Tracy blends fast-moving comedy into the powerful drama with one of the most forceful portrayals of his entire picture career. His rapid-fire dialogue drives home laughs and punches in action that leave the audience breathless. Mae Clarke establishes herself as one of the screen's outstanding emotional actresses with her portrayal of Mary, a woman smothered by the cares of marital existence. She handles each scene with tenderness and depth of understanding. A new player destined to go far on the screen is Otto Kruger, who portrays Ted Wright, hardened materialist who stops at nothing to realize his ambitions. Kruger has a powerful personality which he blends into a characterization with absolute reality. Peggy Shannon is outstanding in the unsympathetic role of Elvina, who provides trouble for Tracy in both of his "lives." Others who deliver notable performances include George Barbier, C. Henry Gordon and Clara Blandick. Editor Selwyn retained full power of the original story in his direction of the picture, which shows a keen sense of human interest values.

"Ladies Must Love"

What are the details of the private lives of New York's gold-digging damsels? What goes on in the boudoirs of these scheming "ladies of the evening"? What are the secrets of Broadway's professional purveyors of pulchritude? The answers to these interesting questions are provided in "Ladies Must Love"—Universal's gay musical picture which opens an engagement at the King's Theatre, on Thursday, with June Knight, Neil Hamilton, Dorothy Burgess, Mary Carlisle and Sally O'Neil in featured roles. With Miss Knight as the principal soloist, "Ladies Must Love" abounds with tuneful songs, which have already become popular throughout country. These include "Tonight May Never Come Again," "I've Got Personality," "I'd Worship Him Just the Same" and "Three Little Maids"—the latter sung by the other girls in a riotously active beer garden scene of their first real work in a long, long time. "Ladies Must Love" is said to be the ultimate in gay, wise cracking, intensely modern screen entertainment.

"My Weakness"

Lillian Harvey is co-featured with Lew Ayres in "My Weakness" to-day at the King's Theatre. The story concerns a plain young girl who, quite by accident, becomes a much-sought-after person. It is more or less in the nature of a wager that she cannot be made attractive, that she is first put on the road to fame for her beauty. She follows victim with victim, until the very man who made the disparaging wager falls a victim himself. "My Weakness" has been produced under the supervision of Buddy De Sylva, producer of Janet Gaynor's unforgettable "Sunny Side Up." He brings to his screen efforts unbroken record of some of the most successful productions of the musical stage. The story of "My Weakness" is of his own authorship and, with Leo Robin and Richard Whiting, also wrote the music and lyrics.

UNREGISTERED - MUI-TSAIS

MARRIED WOMAN FINED

Cheung Yik-kai, a married woman, residing at No. 56, Ship Street, was this morning fined $100 on two summonses for having kept two unregistered mui-tai, Leung So (15) and Cheung Kit (18).

Sub-Inspector Fraser, of the S. C. A., said on December 1 a lady inspector was making enquiries as to the location of a registered mui-tai, and called at defendant's house. The door was opened by the elder of the two girls, who said she was a mui-tai, but had not been registered. She was presented by her mother in the country to the mother-in-law of the defendant, and was brought to Hongkong where she has been residing for the past three years. The younger girl was presented by her mother to the defendant nine years ago, and had been in Hongkong for five years.

Mr. Hamilton (to defendant):—Why have you not registered these girls?

Defendant:—I did not know. S. I. Fraser added that the girls had been exceptionally well treated, and had been given food and clothes, although they received no wages. They both expressed a desire to remain with the defendant, as their parents were dead.

Mr. Hamilton drew attention to a defect in the wording of the summonses.

S. I. Fraser said it was a typing error by the clerk.

Mr. Hamilton:—I will not have these summonses signed blind by your officers.

As defendant was undecided whether to have a week's remand for fresh summonses to be out, Mr. Hamilton amended the summonses.

Addressing S. I. Fraser, Mr. Hamilton said he thought defendant had been foolish, and there was no criminal intent in the matter.

On fining defendant $50 on each summons, Mr. Hamilton said that had it not been that the children were well cared for, he would have fined her much more heavily.

VICAR DENOUNCES PACIFISM

"KEEP YOUR POWDER DRY"

The Rev. J. R. C. Forrest, Vicar of Swanbourne, Winslow, Bucks, speaking at a men's meeting at Blotchley, referred to the "No Fight" resolution recently passed by the Oxford Union.

Shrewd people, he said, knew perfectly well that such resolutions and others similar passed at various Labour conferences were not worth a snap of the fingers.

What would they do when Germany got on her legs again? Germany throughout her history had worshipped war, and war-shipped it, to-day. England had never been able to keep out of war. Therefore we should take the advice of that great soldier, Oliver Cromwell—"Trust in God and keep your powder dry."

Mr. Forrest added: "If you don't have this spirit, I warn you that your children will curse your memories and your blindness when they are up against a powerful country like Germany. Look at Russia, an atheistic country. Do you mean to say that they are going to keep quiet? What scruples will they have or what scruples will Japan have for that matter? Will she take any notice of your resolutions? Not if she gets a chance."

"Remember what human nature is. What are your children going to be like if you keep up this pacifist cry?"

JUDGMENT NOT SATISFIED

FIRM ASKS FOR REVIEW

A review of a judgment, given to plaintiff, was part heard at the Supreme Court this morning but after further evidence had been taken the case was adjourned.

The parties were Kwong Fat & Co., of 192A, Hollywood Road, Victoria, plaintiffs, and the Mercantile Printing Ink Company, and Chang Sam-cheng, manager, of 18, Lee Yuen Street West.

Plaintiffs claimed $712 for zinc supplied to defendants who failed to sell or return it as they had contracted to do. Judgment had been given for plaintiff, but as it remained unsatisfied they applied for a review of judgment and damages, making the total claim $1,000.

Mr. C. E. L. Grist of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, represented plaintiff and Mr. Horace Lo, of Lo & Lo, appeared for defendants.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEDOWNWARD TREND
OF MARKET

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done 1,900,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports:—The market trend was downward due to lack of support and the Steel & Iron Institute's announcement that the industry was operating at 81.6% of capacity. Effects of the silver programme announcement have worn off. Trading was dull and largely professional due to holiday in London. Strength of United States bonds firm the entire bond list. Our New York office cable:—Stocks moved listlessly in the absence of news with little trading activity. Wheat:—The market had a holiday character. There was a severe cold wave with no snow protection. Favour buying side. Cotton:—The effect of the reported large general Christmas sales and continued irregularity. A featureless holiday week is anticipated but confidence in eventually higher prices is apparently unchanged. Silver:—The market closed lower due to profit-taking but it has, however, a steady undertone.

The R.F.C. gold price yesterday was $34.00. The opening figure yesterday of the Dow-Jones industrial average was 97.66.

be plausible to argue that the only real heresy consisted in the method of getting the notes into active circulation, for a very large number of notes would have to be printed before Mr. Roosevelt formally infringed the legal minimum gold cover.

There is unquestionably an element of risk in such a policy, which would only be justified by Mr. Roosevelt's need for quick results. But the risk is probably less than the straiter set of "sound money" advocates is willing to admit, and it is difficult to believe that Mr. Roosevelt will be indefinitely restrained by the public prejudice against inflation, unless, indeed, he delays until the failure of his dollar exchange policy has so far weakened his authority as to prevent him from boldly embarking on further adventures.

Whilst, however, inflation might conceivably suit America in her present peculiar circumstances, let it not be supposed that it is to be recommended for use elsewhere as an easy panacea for depression. Unless handled with the utmost discretion, it is demonstrably capable of causing the gravest disasters, and few are the countries which dare establish it as a precedent without exposing themselves to its abuse by reckless or incompetent politicians. The warnings against it by financial moralists are in general thoroughly well-founded.

"Night Night, Everybody"

I've Had My Baby's Own Tablets."

It will not be long before she is asleep, that sound dreamless sleep of healthy childhood, for her mother knows the value of Baby's Own Tablets and administers them whenever there is need. The little one likes them too, for they are pleasant to take, so there is none of the fuss associated with giving doses of Castor Oil and other nauseating medicines.

Unbroken rest is essential to the health of young children and to attain this the digestive organs must be working properly. If baby is restless, cross, and wakeful as a result of constipation, indigestion, "wind," a little dose of Baby's Own Tablets is usually all that is necessary to set matters right, and speedily to bring sound peaceful slumber in a perfectly natural way.

The Tablets can also be used with good effect in cases of colic, cramp, to check feverishness, expel worms and ease the pains of teething.

Keep a vial of Baby's Own Tablets in the house and you will have a remedy always at hand to keep baby fit and well. They are the prescription of a physician who made a special study of children's maladies. Obtainable from chemists everywhere.

scorching sun and drying dust are dangerous to beauty. Yet you can golf, ride, travel; happy in the satisfaction of knowing your skin will not suffer from the effects of exposure if you give it this special care.
For you need not have a dried out,
coarsened complexion with Pond's Two
famous Creams to aid you.
So, to give your skin the scrupulous attention it needs in a trying climate,
follow this way regularly:

Spread Pond's Cold Cream generously
over face and neck. Smooth in with

Remove. Now your skin is thoroughly
cleansed and refreshed.
Always do this at bedtime, and leave on a little Cream overnight to keep the skin supple and restore the natural oils
dried out by sun and wind.
After each daytime cleansing, apply a bit of Pond's Vanishing Cream to soothe, protect, and for a powder base.
Don't forget to rub some into your hands!
Follow the Pond's way faithfully, and
a peach-bloom skin is yours!

AMERICA'S BURDEN OF DEBTS

Arguments concerning President Roosevelt's monetary policy are arising to heaven these days like a drifting fog about a mountain peak. And, to continue the metaphor, the peak which they veil is the enormous mass of debts piled up in the boom days. In other words, this pile of debts is the central fact in the whole matter. The pros and cons of inflation, managed currencies and the like hang over it, sometimes revealing it and sometimes obscuring it. In the boom days, farmers, business houses and industrial concerns went heavily into debt. Meanwhile, money became scarcer, and people found it necessary to conduct business and personal affairs with fewer dollars than they had before. But the mountain of debt remained unchanged, and it stands to-day, its crags gloomy and bleak. In one way or another, the mountain has to be whittled down in size. The efforts of the Roosevelt Administration may look too much like an effort to move mountains by faith alone to suit practical men. But the job has to be done some way or another. Time will prove whether President Roosevelt's methods are right. There are people in America who do not like the idea of reducing the mass of debt by monkeying with the currency. What do they want, then? In some quarters, it is urged that there should be a scaling down of all fixed charges, from freight rates to utilities rates, coupled with a slash in mortgages, bonds and commercial loans. But here, again, we find opinion sharply divided. The task of America's statesmen is to find a way of getting rid of the load of debts in some way which the people will tolerate. The trouble is that some of the actual methods being employed by President Roosevelt are, in fact, adding to the burden rather than lightening it. All the huge loans which are a feature of his policy will have to be repaid some time. And the question which naturally suggests itself is, where is the money to come from? The Roosevelt plans have, as we have before pointed out, reached a stage in which there can be no going back. For good or ill, the die has been cast. Nothing less than the whole structure of capitalism is on trial. So far, no deep impression on the central problem has been made. It is still in the lap of the gods whether the Roosevelt policies will succeed or fail.

NOTES OF THE DAY

FILMS AND PEACE

Over 18,000,000,000 attendances are annually registered by the 61,500 cinemas scattered throughout the world—a number seven times as great as the total population of the globe. If so many people are seeing films, then their influence must be colossal, and one is forced to query whether the world-influence is altogether for the good. What ever may be one's personal answer to that question, nobody doubts that the influence of the film might certainly be very powerful for good and, internationally, powerful for the promotion of better understanding between nations. Peace-propagandists have concentrated on trying to show people the "war horror" films which shock people into a realisation of the brutality of chaos, but it is far better, without ever forgetting such possibilities, to turn attention to the future.

FILM OF REALITY

The Film fixes actions and, through these, also thoughts and ideas, in a form which can be multiplied by the taking of several copies and then distributed all over the world—or as far as that is allowed—and then shown simultaneously to thousands of peoples. It is the film of reality, and not that of fiction, which gives people a real knowledge of others, and it is that type of film which should be encouraged. It is exactly that type of film against which, however, national restrictions have weighed hardest.

ANOMALY RECOGNISED

Import and Customs duties on films are levied according to their length and without regard to the subject-matter. The educational film, made often on the least possible financial outlay, faces an important item in these duties, but to the entertainment film, made with a lavish expenditure of tens of thousands of pounds, the dues are a mere bagatelle. Furthermore, educational films have never contributed more than a very small fraction of a nation's revenues from this source. This anomaly has been recognised for some time, but clearly some central authority had to be provided which could discriminate between the two types of films. The International Institute of Educational Cinematography at Rome, is just such a body and now, by virtue of a Convention which has just been concluded between thirty-eight nations, that Institute has been invested with the power to grant certificates to educational films. This Convention is, therefore, an important, if small, achievement on the part of the League of Nations, for any films with such a certificate will be granted free entry to any of the signatory nations, including the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

MORE SEA SERPENTS!

The first officer of the ocean liner Santa Lucia is now sharing with the Loch Ness folk a grievance against the incredulous. The trouble, it seems, is that the first officer saw a sea serpent, told about it—and discovered that nobody believed him, even made rude jokes. The glimpse was vouchsafed to him as the ship was in the straits of San Juan de Fuca. The creature he saw was "a great, eel-like monster," with red and green eyes, seven humps like a camel, and a face like a cow. It appeared to measure some 90 feet in length, and it gave a great yell before diving out of sight. Our sympathies in the matter rest entirely with the mariner. If there are no monsters like this one, there certainly ought to be. A world that can generate such fantastic creatures is infinitely more interesting and exciting than one which cannot.

THE PRICE OF 'SKILL'

One of the most interesting lawsuits for some time is the action filed against a New York legal firm the other day by Mr. Conrad H. Mann, former head of the Eagles' lodge. Mann was convicted of violating lottery laws, and promptly was pardoned by President Roosevelt. The firm which he has sued served as his counsel during his trial, and he is asking the damages as compensation for "humiliation, shame, and disgrace" suffered through alleged unskillful handling of his case. The action raises a neat question: What claim has a client on his lawyer if he feels that his lawyer hasn't done his best for him? Mr. Mann feels that proper conduct of his case would have won him acquittal. Whether he will be able to persuade a court that this contention is correct is another question; meanwhile, the legal profession gets an interesting new angle on the old problem of a lawyer's relation to his client.

ROOSEVELT AND CONGRESS

By J. C. JOHNSTONE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS engaged in a desperate race against time. In January he must give to Congress an account of his stewardship. To retain his freedom of initiative and his political ascendancy over that extremely jealous and critical assembly, he must be able to justify his policy by results. Less than two months hence there must be plausible evidence that the tide of prosperity is once more on the rise, and that it is Mr. Roosevelt who commands the tide.

If he continues to pin his faith in his present policy, his chances of success appear to be slight. It is vital to his whole plan that the enforced depreciation of the dollar should be accompanied by a sharp rise in commodity prices. But so far prices have remained obstinately unresponsive, and Professor Sprague is perfectly right when he says there is no inherent reason why they should be anything else.

The dollar exchange policy is placing Mr. Roosevelt in a cleft stick. It can only succeed in raising prices if it succeeds in frightening holders of dollars into commodities. But it will only frighten them if the dollar appears to be getting out of hand. That, however, as Mr. Roosevelt is evidently aware, would spell complete disaster. He has already shown that he is both able and determined to keep the dollar under control, and to permit depreciation only at his own pace.

But by keeping the dollar under control he removes all ground for fright. It is a safe calculation that he is not going to allow the dollar, which now stands at about 60 cents, fall below 50 cents. A dollar pegged at this minimum, however, carries with it no economic reason for more than a fractional rise in domestic commodity prices. Mr. Roosevelt, accordingly, is in the position of either having to burn his house down to roast his pig, or else of having no roast pig; and it must be concluded that the pig will remain unroasted.

Apprehension, indeed, is being expressed in America on another score. Government bonds have commenced to fall under the influence of Mr. Roosevelt's dollar policy, and it is suggested that this fall will presently gather such momentum as to put the Treasury out of court as a borrower. In that case it would be compelled to inflate both to meet substantial pending maturities and to defray current expenditure, and the stage would be set for uncontrolled inflation. Psychology is no inconsiderable factor in this possibility. A serious fall in Government credit, however, is scarcely likely except as a symptom of panic—and panic, as we have shown, is an improbable consequence of the present policy.

A curious thing about Mr. Roosevelt is his inhibition against direct inflation by resort to the printing press, which would soon solve the price problem for him. Why should a man who so gallily throws orthodoxy to the winds boggle over assailing its last entrenchment? The answer seems to lie in the still vivid memories of the disastrous consequences which overtook Germany, France, and other Continental inflation-addicts after the War. Is there, then, any warrant for believing that similar consequences would attend an inflationary experiment by Mr. Roosevelt? That basic ground of hostility to inflation was summed up in a resolution adopted by the Advisory Council of the Federal Reserve Board last week. "History," they said, "shows that the further currency inflation goes the more difficult it becomes to control, and that it invariably results in untold losses to the great masses of the people and the ruin of the national credit."

Mr. Roosevelt, if he were so minded, could return a ready answer to the Advisory Council. He could point out that history, in fact, affords no support for the assumption that inflation is difficult to control unless the circumstances in which it was initiated were outside the control of the Government.

The French Government, for instance, when it inflated in 1925-6 with notoriously ruinous results, was not a free agent. It had a yawning Budget deficit which it was unable to bridge either by reducing expenditure or by increasing taxation. In order to cover current expenditure it had no resource but to obtain revenue by printing notes. As a result partly to the direct influence on prices of the additional notes, partly of the general breakdown of confidence, Government expenditure rose as fast as the printing press turned out the notes, and so the "vicious circle of inflation" was not in motion. The significant feature about this is that the French Government was acting from the start and throughout under duress, and everyone knew that it could not help itself. All the other Continental Governments which inflated after the War were more or less similarly placed.

Mr. Roosevelt, on the other hand, would be able to produce convincing evidence that he was in an utterly different position. He has no unusually alarming Budget deficit and he is not at his wits' end for new revenue. He is an absolutely free agent at the start to inflate or not to inflate. The rise in prices which was the main source of the French Government's anxiety, is the main object of his ambition. He could inflate in large doses or small at will according to the result, and as soon as prices showed a satisfactory response he could stop. There would be no danger of his Budget getting out of balance. On the contrary, he might argue, the general stimulus to economic activity would increase his revenue and render his Budget easier—not more difficult—to balance.

If Mr. Roosevelt chose to inflate, his probable procedure would be to pay for special public works schemes in non-interest bearing bonds exchangeable at the bank for cash. It is not likely that the printing press would be kept at all busy; one or two small issues would suffice to send holders of dollars scuttling into commodities, and up would go prices. It would

ADVERTISING PAYS

By Edward Kelly, Doesn't

WE'RE tired of being poor. What with our chit accounts stopped all over the place, and the dollar rising, and shroffs annoying us every day, we've decided that it's about time we started out to earn some money.

Real money, we mean. So we're going to quit being a journalist. Our Editor contends that we quit long ago, but that's jealousy. We didn't read his leader yesterday.

Commencing next week, we are going to branch out into business, and will start advertising as soon as we can settle some little differences about payment with the Advertising Manager.

In the meantime, as we have this column at our disposal we don't see why we shouldn't make use of it without charge.

HOME TEAMS HAVE GOOD DAY

NEWCASTLE TURNS TABLES

London, Dec. 26.

The topsy-turvy form usually associated with league football at Christmas has been almost completely absent, the surprise being provided by the scarcity of surprises.

The Arsenal carried off six points from three games, Huddersfield captured five and Middlebrough a like number. Wednesday took four points from two games.

To-day, the First Division matches proved a gift for the home teams. The only upset occurred where it seemed least likely. Everton, having won at Newcastle on Christmas, found three goals insufficient to defeat Newcastle at Everton. The visitors netted seven times!

WOLVES ON TARGET.

The Wolves defeated the Villa, by four goals to three. Their forwards netted fourteen goals in three games, the highest aggregate of any team.

In the Second Division, no side obtained maximum points. Millwall obtained five points, four from Notts County (who went entirely pointless through Christmas) and are still only second from the bottom. All the lowly-placed clubs did fairly well.

Grimsby stretched out their lead to six points by a 7-3 win against Manchester United, while Blackpool and Brentford were losing in away matches.

CHARLTON ACHIEVEMENT.

Charlton Athletic alone obtained maximum points in Third Division (South) though Watford gave them a close call to-day. Charlton needed every one of their four goals to take both points.

Norwich repeated against Crystal Palace, but Queen's Park Rangers and Coventry both dropped points and shared with Reading the credit of earning five of six possible points during the holiday season. Not one of the six clubs at the foot of the able lost to-day.

CHESTERFIELD LAPSE.

Chesterfield conceded another point to Darlington in the Northern Section, where Barnsley defeated Hartlepool by 5-4 to give them six points for the Christmas festival, and raise them to fourth place. Walsall, with five Xmas points, now lie third.

Tottenham and Derby went crashing in the First Division, to offset which Chelsea discovered where the net was, netting four times against Sunderland without reply.

MALAYA RACIAL PROBLEMS

CLEMENTI REPLIES TO CRITICS

KUALA LUMPUR SPEECH

The use of Malay as the lingua franca of the country, the place of this language in educational policy, and the "Malayanisation" process in the population of the Peninsula were discussed by Sir Cecil Clementi in a remarkable speech at a Rotary Convention in Kuala Lumpur last week.

His Excellency laid great stress on the need for racial harmony and good fellowship and asked Rotarians to set their faces like flint "against any effort to stir up animosity between race and race and creed and creed."

In the course of his speech, Sir Cecil said:—"Few things have grieved me more than the suggestions recently made in certain local newspapers—without any truth and sometimes, I fear, in malice—that my own direction of Malayan policy has caused racial discord in this peninsula."

GIVEN THE LIE.

"Such insinuations deliberately misrepresent the course of events during the past three years; and the possibility of my permitting such a policy is given the lie by my whole life."

"I was born and lived as a child in India, where my father and one of my brothers spent their whole official careers. In my school days I began the study of Sanskrit, which I continued at Oxford, at a time when I had thoughts of entering the Indian Civil Service, and ever since I have been keenly and sympathetically interested in India and its peoples."

"For three years I served as Colonial Secretary of Ceylon and became well acquainted with the Jaffna Tamils and the Ceylonese many of whom are personal friends of mine. I retain from those years an abiding affection for Ceylon and its inhabitants."

LOVES THE CHINESE.

"China I have known since 1899. The best years of my life were spent in Hongkong, and it is not too much to say that I love China and the Chinese."

"In Malaya I have lived only since 1930; but from my early boyhood, in the days when my uncle, Sir Cecil Clementi Smith was at first Colonial Secretary and afterwards Governor of the Straits Settlements, I grew familiar with the story of this peninsula and learned to admire the Malays."

LAYING THE FOUNDATIONS.

"Such having been my life, I find myself in full sympathy with the chief racial elements in the population of this country, and my whole heart and mind are set upon the endeavour to maintain harmony and good fellowship between them and to fashion them into true and trusty citizens of Malaya. (Applause.)"

"Generations may perhaps be needed for this task; but my aim is to see that the foundations are well and truly laid."

RADIATOR CAP STOLEN

THIEF RESISTS ARREST

Wan Choi, 33, stated to be an unlicensed marine hawker, was sentenced to ten weeks' hard labour by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning for stealing a radiator cap from a motor car owned by Mr. R. P. Poinet, of Little Shop, who is at present in Shanghai. The car had been parked outside Messrs. Butterfield & Swire, Connaught Road.

Defendant was also sentenced to a further week's hard labour for damaging a Chinese constable's whistle chain when being arrested on Christmas morning. P. C. Willerton responded to the blasts for assistance and went to the scene.

Detective-Sergeant C. Goodwin, prosecuting, said defendant had two previous convictions. The radiator cap was valued at $15. There had been an epidemic of such thefts throughout the Colony.

SUCCESS WITH BAT & BALL AGAINST ARMY

CLUB WIN FIRST T.T. MATCH BY AN INNINGS

MCINNIS OPENS HIS SHOULDERS

(By R. Abbit)

AS Saturday's close of play indicated, the Club yesterday won the triangular tournament cricket match against the Army in a very comfortable manner, dismissing their rivals in the second innings for 102 to win by an innings and 29 runs.

T. A. Pearce carried off the major honours of the match, scoring 67, and in all, capturing 9 wickets for 37 runs. I. McInnes helped to brighten yesterday's rather dull play with a sparkling innings of 40 not out.

There was not much sun about yesterday morning and as the day wore on it became very dull and overcast. Nor did the majority of the cricket serve to brighten it. The Army continued to field very well and their bowlers worked hard; but apart from T. A. Pearce and I. McInnes the Club batting was pretty poor. Pearce resumed his knock and proceeded to play Elvin—I am sorry we all got his name wrong yesterday—with a good deal of respect but without much difficulty, and he hit the occasional ball one well and truly, in the first, he batted a full toss to leg boundary very hard. Garthwaite bowled at the Yard end and was very good save that he was short of a length a bit. He kept Owen Hughes very quiet, and as the effects of the roller began to wear off he had one on two nasty lumps. Pearce put one past extra for four and the score was increased by twenty three when Owen Hughes, who had made two in twenty minutes, tried to speed things up and hooked Elvin very hard. Dorey forward short leg took a brilliant catch.

A BAD PATCH. In was at this period that the Club lost three wickets in ten minutes. Hayward had only made five when a beautiful ball from Elvin pitched on his leg stump and took the off ball. Harley completely mistimed the next and retorted it as a tame, as he next to Garthwaite, closed in at mid-off. The very next ball only missed McInnes' sticks by a cent of point, and he survived an appeal for stumped at the same time. He certainly was not out, but had been the Army might have put a very different complexion on the game. He stopped with Pearce however while forty-four runs were added. Butler had relieved Garthwaite by this and sent down some useful stuff and then suddenly lost his length and there were two four byes wide to leg which certainly were not a great help. He then gave way to Dorey while Whitley went on for Elvin. The latter effected the separation, getting Alice Pearce taken at the wicket for a very nice sixty-seven. The out-going batsman had played infinitely better cricket in this portion of his innings and seemed comfortable all the time while some of the shots he played were delightful to watch.

After he had gone McInnes braked up and there was some quick running between the wickets. Whitley showed he had him however as a long low hit to long-on was a shade misjudged by the fieldman, who had to go back a yard at the last minute and failed to hold what would have been a good catch.

DEWEY BOWLS WELL. Dewey meanwhile was spinning the ball quite well, and turning quite a bit from the off. Beck soon went, ballooning one to Walker at the first, and a great many singles came about now. But nine were down for a hundred and ninety-three. Then McInnes got busy again and, with Divott keeping up an end, twenty were added for the last wicket before Garthwaite relieved Dewey bowled Divott's off peg. He deserved a wicket, as though he had to bowl slower than usual owing to his damaged foot he kept a steady length whenever he bowled yesterday. Elvin bowled very well indeed and was unlucky. His figures were 22-4-4 and it was generally agreed that he might easily have had a couple more wickets.

It remains to be seen if he can stand being hit. If he can, he will do very well, but he will have to cut down his number of bad ones. From a bowler such as he, a bad ball is an almost certain four to any decent bat. Dewey had two for eighteen but he was hardly on against the better bats.

THE FATAL TEN MINUTES. The Army were left with a hundred and thirty-two to get to save the innings defeat, but, what was worse, they had ten minutes to get through before time. And they did not do it. Beck started sensationally. His first ball suggested he had mistaken Owen Hughes at second slip for the stumps, and roared away for four byes. Then he had the batsman in trouble and off the fourth ball Owen Hughes dived forward and got a fast low chance in his left hand and held the ball for a fraction of a second but unfortunately in falling he got his right elbow under him and the jerk not only twisted the ball out of his hand but partially wined him. Luckily he was only laid out temporarily and went on to bowl at the Law Courts end. After two overs however he gave the ball to Pearce who got Sgt. Taylor caught at short third man off his last ball. It was not a good ball, but the batsman's shot was worse. Beck sent down some fast stuff but he was rather uncertain in his direction and twice Dunkley earned applause for taking ones wide on the leg very cleanly. Tiffin was taken with the score at 13-1-2.

AFTER Tiffin. On the resumption Colledge joined Williams and both played steady cricket for a bit. Beck was still uncertain of his direction and Divott relieved Pearce to allow him to get back to the Yard end where he prefers. In Divott's first over however Colledge cut a ball hard and low to Owen Hughes' right hand and a very fine catch was made the fieldman running over on the ground but retaining the ball. Two for thirty-one was not so good, but here came the longest stand as Butler stopped while fifty-two runs were put on of which he claimed twenty-four as his share. Williams played dogged cricket though it must be admitted both batsmen had a fair share of luck. It was not until McInnes went on that the stand was broken. In his first over Butler was dropped at mid-off from a hot drive but a ball or two later he nicked one and Alice Pearce made a quick catch at first slip, 82-3-24. I do not suppose that at that time anyone expected the Army with Garthwaite and Walker to come would be all out for an additional nineteen runs. But so it was.

A COLLAPSE. Garthwaite came in third wicket down and as he was last out with only eight to his credit the complete collapse of the rest of the side is obvious.

The over after Butler went Pearce, who changed to round the wicket with three short legs, tempted Williams to have a smack and Hayward at forward leg held a brilliant catch with his left hand. The ball was hit hard and wide of him. Walker made three and then returned a simple catch to Pearce off what must have been very nearly a half volley. Two balls later Michell was bowled by a break-back and six were down for eighty-seven runs.

For a bit it looked as if Cragg and Garthwaite might stop the rot but they could not get the ball away—both bowlers sending down some excellent stuff.

Then McInnes got the next three, working Cragg with a slower ball, getting Whitley taken at second slip—another good catch by Owen Hughes—and tempting Elvin to put one up to point. Pearce finished things by getting Garthwaite caught by Divott in his leg-trap. The Club thus won by an innings and twenty-nine runs.

A REVIEW. A lot of the cricket in this game was not very good. Apart from T. A. Pearce and I. McInnes, the Club batsmen did not distinguish themselves. Their bowlers however did. Pearce's record for the match was nine for thirty-seven—which is pretty good. McInnes had four for eleven and while there were no startling figures besides, the bowling was pretty good.

On the whole the brightest part of the game was the excellent fielding of both sides. Williams (J. T.) has shown that he can bat usefully and

Butler has possibilities though he hardly seems to make enough of his long reach. But beyond Garthwaite, there is not much else.

THE NAVY AND ARMY MATCH.

The same team will represent the Army against the Navy with the exception that Captain P. V. Williams returns to the side and Whitley drops out. This will make a tremendous difference to them. At least—this is the team I was told by their umpire (I think). I understood however from Walker that he will be unable to play and if this is so I don't know what will be done.

Pte. Dewey by his bowling and fielding has certainly strengthened his claim to a place in the side. I cannot help thinking that if available Bonavia would be their best selection. Colledge has shown that he is quite a capable wicket-keeper—he stumped three and caught one in the Club innings—though I did not think he was quite so good yesterday as he was on Saturday. I don't know the Navy side at the time of writing but I suppose that if available, Stevenson, Marsham, Eaden, Richards, Carver, and Alexander Sinclair will be the nucleus. Given fine weather, which appears a bit doubtful at the time of writing, I fancy the Army will win but it should be an excellent game. I shall hope to deal pretty fully with it in my Friday article, as unfortunately I shall be able to see little if any of it.

PLAYS PROMINENT PART IN CHINA'S VICTORY

WALES TO HAVE WORTHY FOES IN CHARITY CUP FINAL

YESTERDAY'S KEEN ENCOUNTER

(By "Veritas").

A huge holiday crowd at the Club ground yesterday saw China enter the final of the International Charity Cup, when Portugal were beaten by five goals to two. In several respects it was a typical "after the night before" game, both teams appearing rather lacksidical. Neither reached top form, but the Chinese were the better team and deserved to qualify as Wales' opponents.

China did not get on top until the last fifteen minutes. Then, playing four forwards, they overran the weary Portugal defence and rattled the net with three rapid goals.

The match was a personal triumph for Tay Qua-tong, who, brought in to replace Wong Ate-shun at inside right, gave his cleverest display to date in local football.

He worked in perfect understanding with Au Kim-fung and Yeung Shui-yic, and so closely did he attend Gomes and Silva-Netto, that the Portugal backs finally broke down.

The speed and snap which characterised the movements of the Welshmen on Christmas Day was markedly absent in this match, but there was a considerable amount of neat passing accomplished by both teams, and the exchanges, except for a brief interval at the beginning, were never dull.

PORTUGAL HOLD THEIR OWN.

Portugal held their own for three parts of the game. The forwards often attacked brilliantly, but they did not possess the same finishing powers of the Chinese, whilst they found themselves up against a more determined defence.

Ward at inside right caught the eye with his ball control and fine through passes to both Gomes brothers, and Betty Gosano on the wing supported ably, putting the ball squarely across the goal.

But A. V. Gosano was too well marked to prove the same effective leader of old, and time after time the Chinese defence cleared their lines.

The left wing was a definitely weak link in the Portugal attack. Ribeiro was overshadowed by Leung In-chen, who played at left back with refreshing accomplishment, and Rocha could not get his passes going in the right direction.

The half backs started well and then apart from Elms, who stuck grimly to a difficult task, fell away and seemed quite unable to cope with the Au Kim-fung Tay Wau-tong combination.

Bolton put in some useful work in the first half, and compared favourably with his wis-a-vis, Leung Wing-chui. But when the pace began to tell, the St. Joseph's pivot faded out. Mirons never obtained the hang of Fung King-mu, and Silva-Netto had far too much responsibility thrust upon him as a result.

AS WELL AS COULD BE EXPECTED.

Judged according to general standards, Silva-Netto and Gomes by no means disgraced themselves. Whilst Portugal had a fighting chance, they put all they had into the job of keeping out the Chinese forwards, but after the fourth goal, they resigned themselves to the inevitable.

Marques in goal, given no chance with five shots, had the satisfaction of knowing that he saved at least five other scoring shots, and that his goalkeeping was worthy of the occasion.

China had a most unexpected line-up. Li Tin-sang, and Fung King-cheung were absentees, which involved Tam Kong-pak dropping back to partner Leung In-chen, and the introduction of Au Kim-fung and Mak Sul-hon of the Athletic into the forward line. The changes did not materially affect the players. Au Kim-fung, who failed in the Lai Wah Cup, was in magnificent form and led the forwards with marked skill, in addition to which he scored two goals—both of them beauties.

The Chinese forward line certainly put more vim into their labours than did the Portuguese, and once they had mastered the opposition, were just as effective as the best attack China could put into the field.

Both wingers supported their insides to their utmost ability, and taken by and large, the quintette was impressive.

Leung Wing-chui was the main-spring of the half back line, with Ho Choi-yin performing well on the right flank. Lee Kwok-wai was not up to standard, and it was not until Mak Sul-hon dropped back in the closing stages, that the Gosano-Ward wing was conquered.

Leung In-chen was the finest back on the field. His spectacular interceptions and powerful and accurate kicking delighted the crowd. Tam Kong-pak was reliable, but was not always seen to best advantage against the inter-passing of Ward and Gosano.

Wong Wing was remarkably safe, and fielded the ball with rare judgment.

China opened the scoring through Au Kim-fung, who took advantage of a mix-up before goal to net with a fast ground shot.

SENSATIONAL RESPONSE.

Portugal replied in sensational style. From the kick off the ball passed to Rocha, who returned to A. V. Gosano. The centre-forward worked through, passed to Ward, who took a first time shot, and Wong Wing sadly had to pick the ball from out the back of the net.

Au Kim-fung gave China the lead again before half time, but after the interval it was short-lived. A. V. Gosano converting a penalty, given presumably against Tam Kong-pak for handling.

It was after this that China were really roused, and Fung King-mu cut in cleverly to snatch back the lead. After this China could not be stopped, and further goals came from Tay Qua-tong and Yeung Shui-yic.

I still favour Wales to win the Charity Cup.

H.M.S. MEDWAY WIN FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

3RD DIV. OF C. F. L.

BEAT SUFFOLK

LOSERS PLUCKY BUT
BELOW STANDARD

(By "The Scout")

H.M.S. Medway met and decisively defeated H.M.S. Suffolk at Happy Valley to-day by five clear goals, and thus captured the Div. III trophy for the third successive season. This is, I believe, a record for the competition. The score does not exaggerate Medway's superiority, who played like a winning team throughout, although Suffolk are to be congratulated for a very plucky display.

Play was over for the first five minutes, each goal being scored in turn. Hughes almost opened Medway's account, owing to Moss fumbling but the goalkeeper managed to scramble the ball away. After Glass had hit the cross bar with a great shot, and Moss had saved in great style from Walker, the latter rounded Eyres, and put Medway ahead. Almost immediately after Millan got away on the right wing, passed to Walker, who being tackled by Styles, passed to Glass the centre forward driving in a fast ground shot to put his side further ahead.

CHARMED LIFE.
During one of Suffolk's raids, the Medway's goal appeared to bear a charmed life being at the forwards' mercy, Leech saving from Jones, and Sidney missing an open goal.

Medway tried hard to add to their score, but the Suffolk's defence although over-worked played up well and managed to keep their citadel intact until half time. Sidney was responsible for some good work during this period, dropping back and assisting his half-backs considerably. Half time—Medway 2, Suffolk 0.

After the interval Suffolk improved considerably, but generally their finishing was poor, several fine centres from Foster being wasted. Ten minutes after the interval Medway increased their lead. Walker heading in from Tarratt's centre after the left winger had been sent away by Bright.

Suffolk nearly scored, when Hall sent in a great dropping shot, Leech doing well to clear, and again when Morgan handled in the penalty area. From the "spot kick" Leech saved but the referee ordered the kick to be retaken, owing to defenders encroaching. Styles then shot wide.

Medway's fourth goal was from another fine centre by Tarratt, Glass heading in.

CUSTODIANS IN FORM.
Both Goalkeepers brought off good saves in turn Moss saving a pile driver from Tarratt, and Leech a high shot by Hall. During the concluding five minutes the Suffolk launched a series of determined attacks at their opponents goal, but Magill and Richards usually had the situation well in hand, and cleared effectively. Right on time Tarratt scored the finest goal of the match, running through and beating four opponents, thus bringing his side's total to five.

For the winners Tarratt and Walker proved a formidable left wing, while Bright at left half was a very effective spoiler. The defence which was never very severely tested proved equal to all emergencies.

On the losing side Sidney was always prominent, Lewis in the half-back line was a great trier, and Foster on the left wing put in some good runs and centres.

The teams lined up as follows:
Medway: Leech; Magill and Richards; Morgan, Barrett and Bright; Millan, Hughes, Glass, Walker and Tarratt.
Suffolk: Moss; Styles and Eyres; Turner, Thornton and Lewis; Oddy, Sidney, Jones, Hall and Foster.

MASSSED BANDS TO PLAY

The organisers of the charity football match between the Army and Navy to take place at Soekun-poon to-morrow are looking forward to a record gate, and it is to be hoped that enthusiasts will not allow to-day's weather conditions to put them off from attending.

Arrangements are now complete, and in addition to the promise of a sparkling game of football, the event will provide a colourful pageant.

The massed bands of the Fleet will carry out marching and counter-marching during the interval, and selections will be played prior to the match.

The Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Sir Frederick Dreyer, K.C.B., C.B.E., has kindly consented to kick-off, and the stage is well set for an unusually attractive afternoon.

The teams which will be on view are:

Navy:—Liddington; James and West; Purkins, McGuire, and Mitchell; Hudds, Smith, Langmead, Barnett and Skinner.

Army:—Combe; Allen and Morrison; Dudley, Podmore and Cork; Mathias, Harris, McWade, Ridley and Hocquard.

IMPROVING THE OVAL

HALF MILE BRICK
WALL

COSTING £3,000

Surrey County Cricket Club, whose accounts are expected to show a profit of more than £1,000, are putting several schemes in hand for improving Kernington Oval, in readiness for next season. In place of the wooden fencing which now surrounds the ground, a brick wall 10 feet high and half a mile long is being built at the cost of between £3,000 and £4,000. This sum, the Committee anticipate, will be offset by the decreased cost of the repairs.

Amenities for the shilling spectator will be improved by the fitting benches capable of seating 1,250 people, and additional seats for another 500 are to be provided. The Surrey Committee are considering the reduction of some of the stand prices for certain games, while arrangements regarding the free stand may be altered.

For the convenience of members and the public and to facilitate the work of the staff, additional office accommodation is planned, with a separate entrance for those who wish to make inquiries and buy tickets.

MAMAK WIN FOR
C.B.A.

HOLIDAY HOCKEY

The C.B.A. maintained their hundred per cent. record in the Mamak Tournament yesterday when they met the Medway at King's Park, winning by three goals to nil. The game was confined mainly to the mid-field and featured by some hard hitting. The C.B.A. were the better side, but the forwards frequently found their match in the Navy defence.

The Medway kept them in check until the closing stages of the first half when Hirst took up the wing on the right and after beating two men in the defence, shot from just inside the circle. Just before the whistle the Medway were penalised for an infringement in the circle and from the corner Whitley stopped for Halford to score, but the goal was disallowed for carrying.

In the second half the C.B.A. took a back seat for the first ten minutes, the Medway launching several attacks, but to find Pole and S. Mac-Nider safe. They soon fell away and Whitley found the net to put the C.B.A. two goals up. Before final time Francis netted their third.

RADIO DRAW

Playing at King's Park yesterday the Radio shared honours with the Navy Lower Deck, each side scoring once. Johnson gave the Navy men the lead in the first half and after resumption Rulla Khan equalised.

Y.M.C.A. BEATEN.

The Y.M.C.A. went under to the South Wales Borderers by two goals to nil at King's Park yesterday. The Borderers were the better side and at the interval were one goal up, Pole scoring. In the second half they netted a further goal through Jones. The Y.M.C.A. were weak in the circle.

TEAM CHOSEN.

The following team has been picked to play for the Hongkong C.C. against a Y.M.C.A. team at the United Services' Ground, Kowloon, to-day at 5 p.m.: Skinner, Roger (Capt.), Read, Low, Read, A. N. Other, Owen, Hughes, Tetley, Pivett, Potter and Archer.

FAMOUS FINNS SUSPENDED

OLYMPIC STAR OUSTED
FROM SPORTS

UNTIL NEXT YEAR

London.
The Vice-President of the Finnish Amateur Athletic Association and three famous Finnish athletes have been suspended at a special meeting of the Finnish A.A.A.

Mr. Ossian Roscher, a Vice-President of the F.A.A.A., President of the Helsingfors Athletic Club, the Helsingfors Klubb, and a member of the Local Insurance Company, was suspended from being a member of any sporting organization, and also from participating in an administrative capacity at any athletic meetings for a period of two years. The reason for the suspension is the fact of his having signed the now famous Nurmi-Wide letter in which he offered these two famous athletes a sum of money to appear. This was as far back as 1931.

LEHRINEN SUSPENDED.

Lauri Lehrinen, Finland's middle and long distance runner, considered by many to be at least the equal of Nurmi, and winner of last year's Olympic 5,000 metres at Los Angeles in record time, and holder of the British three miles championship for which he was awarded the Harvey Memorial Gold Cup, was suspended until June 1934 for refusing to take part in the international match held during British Week between Finland and England. Lehrinen gave as his reason for not running that he did not want to neglect his business. He is employed in the Clerical department of the Helsingfors Police. But the Committee considered this excuse was too thin.

Eino Purje, who finished third in the 1,500 metres at the Olympic Games of 1928 at Amsterdam, and also reached the final of the 5,000 metres, was suspended for life for being a self acknowledged professional and a member of the Ladoumague Athletic organization. Antero Kivi, who finished second in throwing the discus at the 1920 Olympic Games at Antwerp was also suspended for life for conduct unworthy of a sportsman.

STORM OVER SQUASH RACKETS TEAM

Two of England's Best Players Resign From
A Famous Club

London.
F. R. Amr Bey, an Egyptian, who is acclaimed as the greatest squash rackets player in the world, has resigned from the Jesters' Club, the well-known squash club, owing to a disagreement with the Team Selection Committee.

The club is sending a team of five to the United States in the New Year on a country tour.

Neither Amr Bey nor P. A. Reiss of the Royal Air Force Club, was invited to go; Reiss also, has resigned from the Jesters' Club.

The Egyptian holds the Open and Amateur Squash Championships, and Reiss is one of the best players in the country.

Neither player would comment on his resignation, and Mr. Jack Burnett, secretary of the Jesters' Club, also stated he was forbidden to make any statement.

"Squash rackets is not the prerogative of any nationality or race," an authority declared, "and three of the most popular cricketers who have played abroad for England have been Ranji, his nephew, Duleepsinhji, and the Nawab of Pataudi."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney
Solution to Previous Contract Problem

It is interesting to note that the Auction Bridge Club of Chicago presented the American Bridge League with the national team-of-four championship trophy played for annually at national tournaments. And then—to show that it really had a reason for donating the trophy—it proceeded to win the cup.

This same club is sending a team-of-four for the first time to compete in the Vanderbilt cup tournament in New York City, and to-day I am pleased to present to you the "second" member of the team, Dan M. Smith, who sat in the South position in the hand I shall describe, and who found the correct play to make six-odd at spades.

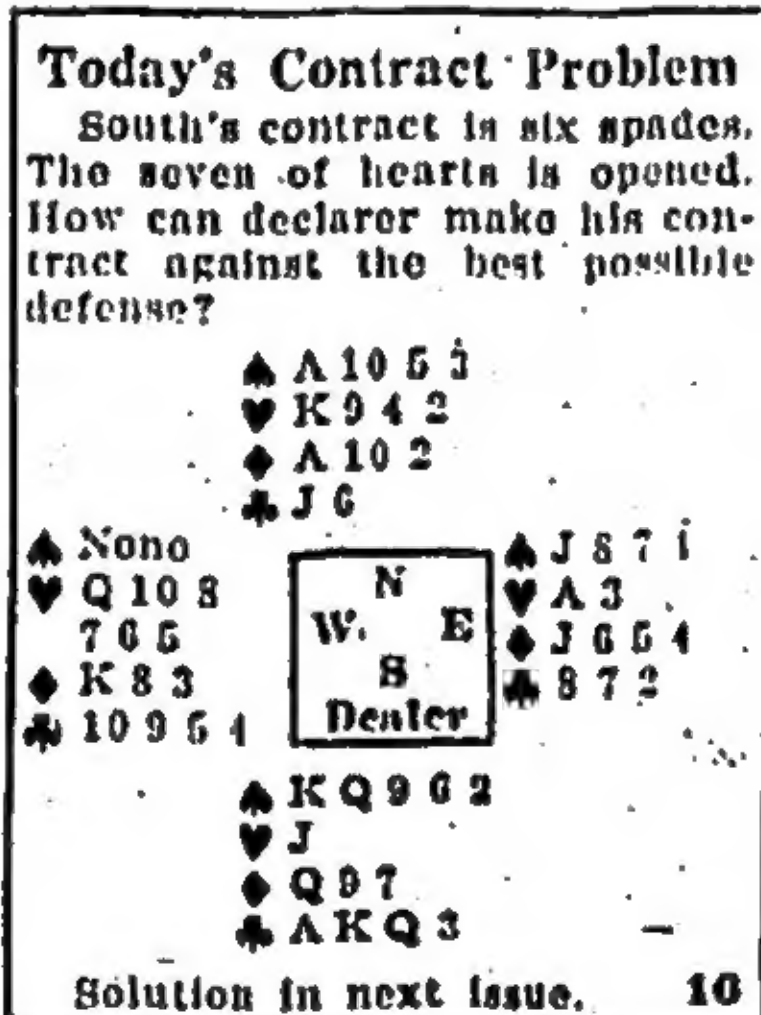

To-day's hand again brings out the fact that it does not always pay to ruff losing cards. West's opening lead was the king of diamonds, which South won with the ace. The ace of spades was played to learn the distribution of the spade suit, declarer playing the five (not the three) from dummy. East showed out on the first round, discarding a club.

Now, if the declarer attempted to ruff out his two losing diamonds, his contract would have been defeated. His proper play was to return a small spade, and when West played the seven, the eight in dummy took the trick.

A small club then was played, declarer winning with the ace, and, before leading another trump, his proper play was the five of clubs.

West trumped, and the small club was played from dummy. West returned the queen of hearts, which was won by the ace, and declarer led the ten of spades from dummy, overtaking with the king in his own hand. He then led a small diamond, trumping with the queen in dummy, and played out the king and queen of clubs. South discarded two hearts and West was forced to drop a heart and a diamond.

At the eleventh trick the three of spades was played from dummy.

THEFT OF SHAWLS.

EMPLOYEE OF SHOP TRIES TO PAWN ARTICLES

Six charges concerning the theft of nine shawls and two ivory carvings were brought against Lui Yuen-wun, 18, office coolie, when he appeared before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court yesterday morning.

The complainants were the Tung Kau Import and Export Firm, China Building, where the defendant had been employed for the past year.

Det-sergt. C. Goodwin said defendant was arrested in the Tak Ying pawnshop, attempting to pawn a silk shawl for $5. Sixteen more tickets, in respect of other articles, were also found in his possession. The Police only put six charges against him but there would have been ten more. The property stolen was valued at about $600. Defendant was a clansman of the complainant.

Two months' hard labour was imposed, and defendant was further bound over in a surety for $100 for one year.

Outside the Catholic Cemetery the firing party and band formed a guard of honour.

U.S. NAVY PLANS CHANGED

A change in the plans for the return of the American fleet to the Atlantic from the Pacific on a visit next year has been announced by Admiral David F. Sellers, the commander, upon his return from Washington.

He said the fleet would sail to the North Atlantic by way of the Panama Canal on April 9. While the itinerary has not been approved it was unofficially reported in naval circles that the squadrons will return to the Pacific about Nov. 15.

Admiral Sellers has also recommended to the Navy department that six seaplanes of a patrol squadron leave San Francisco in the middle of January on a non-stop flight to Honolulu, a distance of about 2,000 miles. The flight will be similar to two long-distance flights made this year by naval squadrons between the United States and the Panama canal.

The combined Atlantic and Pacific fleets have been in the Pacific for the last two years. President Roosevelt's recent announcement of the return of the main body to the Atlantic was hailed with satisfaction in Japan.

H.M.S. Tamar; V/S Dept., H.M.S. Wron; Officers and Ship's Company, H.M.S. Tarantula; Communications Staff, H.M.S. Keppel; Communications Staff, H.M.S. Berwick; Stonecutters W/T Station; All warships in harbour flew their colours at half-mast from 9.15 a.m. until 10.15 a.m.

AMERICAN BOND TAXATION

EXEMPTION TO BE REMOVED

New York, Dec. 21.

President Roosevelt is expected to ask Congress to appropriate about one billion dollars more for public works.

Sentiment in both Senate and House is reportedly about ready to remove the tax exemption feature from the forty billion dollars of municipal, state and federal bonds for the purpose of increasing the Government's revenue.

With the convocation of Congress less than a fortnight away, it is becoming evident that the Government's investment in the nation's banking, interests in industrial and agrarian communities will increase heavily in 1934, observers pointed out to-day.

The announcement was made that the R. F. C. will seek authority to make direct loans to solvent industries.

Likewise, the R. F. C., which has already purchased over one-fifth of the American outstanding banking capital of US$3,500,000,000, expects to increase its ownership to nearly one-third with ultimate preferred stock purchases exceeding one billion dollars.—Per Sloan, Culbertson and Fritz.

Six weeks' hard labour was given by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning to Tang Kau, who admitted stealing 10 lbs. of printing type from 43, Des Voeux Road Central.
